THE METHODIST CHURCH

CO-OPERATION WITH OTHER BODIES

APPOINTMENT OF MINISTERS

BELFAST, Monday.

The Conference of the Methodist Church in Ireland was resumed in Donegall Square Church, Belfast. The President (the Rev. Richard Pyke) presided.

The Rev. Dr. Northridge, reporting on the work of the Committee to communicate with other Churches, said that as a result of several meetings with the representatives of the Presbyterian Church, opportunities for closer co-operation in open-air work and other forms of Evangelism had been embraced, and the Committee was re-appointed, with the addition of the Rev. John England, Mr. E. W. Booth, B.A.I.; Mr. R. M. Sayers, Mr. D. B. Bradshaw, Mr. T. A. Shillington and Mr. F. Elliott.

The report of the Orphan Society was submitted by the Revs. C. Wilson, R. H. Gallagher, B.A., and Mr. R. B. Alexander, J.P. The Society had cared for 2,750 children during its history, and a number of additional orphans were placed on the payroll of the Society for the ensuing year. Tributes were paid to the Lord Enniskillen Memorial Fund for its material assistance to the Orphan Society.

The address from the Irish Conference to the British Conference was submitted by the Rev. James Wishcart, and approved.

DUBLIN CENTRAL MISSION

The report of the Dublin Central Mission was presented by Mr. T. J. Rogers and the Rev. Johnstone Hunter. The Mission had sustained a great loss by the passing of Mr. J. Robertson Coade, who, for thirty years, had been treasurer of the Mission. Much encouragement had attended the spiritual and social work of the Mission during the year, and the Committee was enlarged to include representatives of Dolphin's Barn and Inchicore Churches.

Reports on the work of the North Belfast Mission and the work of Londonderry City Mission were received and adopted.

A number of questions dealt with the constitution of the Female Orphan Schools.

THE PRESIDENT THANKED

At the conclusion of the business the Vice-President (Rev. Alex. McCrea, M.A.) was moved to the chair, and the Rev. James M. Alley proposed that a cordial vote of thanks be accorded to the President for the ability and graciousness with which he had presided over the various sessions of the Conference. The motion, seconded by Mr. William Robinson, J.P., was passed.

At the closing session of the Nominational Conference the stations of the ministers for the ensuing year, as printed in the third draft, were confirmed, with the following changes:—

Dublin Central Mission (third minister), the Rev. David J. Allen; Waterford, the Rev. James A. Gordon; Mountmellick, the Rev. Thomas J. Kyle; Youghal, the Rev. D. Hall Ludlow; Limerick, the Rev. Ivan W. S. Jones, M.A.; Trillick, the Rev. J. A. M. McNutt; Newtownstewart, the Rev. T. Henry Holloway; Omagh, the Rev. A. Harbinson, B.A.; Dunkineely, the Rev. James B. Barton.

Belfast, Donegall square, the Rev. R. M. L. Waugh; Belfast, Crumlin road, the Rev. Albert W. Gamble; Edgehill College (Junior Tutor), Rev. G. Douglas Dunlop, B.A.; Belfast, Jennymount, Rev. W. J. Carson; Belfast Central Mission (third minister), the Rev. G. B. Ferguson; Belfast, Ligoniel, the Rev. W. T. Brownlee; Whitehead, the Rev. Sidney Edgar.

In the evening, at a crowded session in Grosvenor Hall, the following, who have satisfactorily completed their probationary courses, were ordained to the final work of the ministry:—Messrs. J. S. Stewart Armitage, David J. Allen, Alan R. Booth, B.A., LL.B.; Walter Bingham, James B. Turner, Frederick Twinem, B.A. The charge was delivered by the President of the Conference, the Rev. Richard Pyke.

SOCIAL WELFARE

At Saturday's session the President (the Rev. Richard Pyke) presided.

The conference considered the proposals submitted for the constituting of a new Council on Social Welfare. The department would have under its supervision such questions as the drink problem, gambling, public health, social purity, industrial conditions, Christian citizenship. The constitution of the council was approved, and the election of a ministerial and a lay secretary resulted in the return of the Rev. J. Wesley McKinney and Mr. Fred Jeffrey, B.A.

The Rev. T. J. Irwin, D.Litt., and Mr. W. A. Alford presented the report of Wesley College, Dublin. Mr. Alford said that the college as the largest Protestant secondary school in Eire, "Wesley" continues to fulfil an important rôle, and had enjoyed another very successful year in trying times.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Rev. Dr. Moody conveyed greetings from the Presbyterian Church, and said a vast number of young people of to-day had no education in the reality of religion. They were haunted by incredulity and doubt.

The election of members of the General Committee for the ensuing year resulted in the return of the following:—Ministerial—Revs. J. A. Duke, B.A.; R. H. Gallagher, B.A.; T. J. Irwin, D.Litt.; W. G. Lee, R. A. Lockhart, B.A.; W. L. Northridge, B.D., Ph.D.; James Smyth, LL.D., D.D.; A. Holland, J. B. Jameson, J. W. McKinney.

Lay—Messrs. R. C. Booth, B.A.I.; W. M. Elliott, W. H. Hadden, W. R. Maconkey, C.B.E.; A. C. Marshall, J. T. Mulligan, J. G. Reid, N. Robb and Dr. H. G. Smith.

STOCK EXCHANGE PRICES HEAVILY SCALED DOWN AS A PRECAUTION

DUBLIN

British Securities opened with a weak appearance on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday morning, and later, following the grave news from France, dealings became a matter of negotiation, and prices slumped to very low levels. Local issues, on the whole, presented a fairly steady appearance, and were little affected by the recent developments.

Home Government Funds held up well, although there were one or two small shrinkages. 3½ p.c. War Loan relapsed 27/6 to 97, but in the later dealings it was no better than around the minimum level of 95. Corporation issues held steady to firm. Banks continued quiet, and Nationals eased to 33/6.

Guinness units were small sellers, and finished weak at 58/-, a fall of 3/3 on the day. Dublin Tram Pref. shaded off to 18/6, but Alliance Gas Deb. advanced two points to 96. Cement Ord. shaded off to 27/3, but Independent "B" Ord. hardened to 36/-, and other Irish industrials held up well.

Imperial Tobaccos lost 1/9 at 85/3, and Vickers Ord. gave way to 11/7½. Elec. Musical Industries quoted 4/9 and Mexican Eagle Oils 3/-.

WOOL

BRADFORD—Recent military developments have made buyers very hesitant about entering into new commitments. Only moderate amount of business is being done, and prices paid show no change from recent level. There is no falling off in intensive output of wool goods for Government, although some of the contracts now in hand are nearing completion.

LONDON

The London Stock markets faced up well to the week-end war news when trading was resumed yesterday, but the atmosphere was by no means settled, and, following the grave news from France, business, already negligible, dried up completely, and a weak tone developed in all sections.

The general scaling down of prices was largely due to protective measures by jobbers, however, and at no time was there evidence of any attempt to unload stock. Nevertheless the initial adjustments were succeeded by further cuts in prices, and at the end of the session severe losses were shown on a broad front.

Gilt-edged securities were among the first issues to lose ground, and, despite the absence of sellers, the decline gathered momentum in later dealings. War Loan 3½ per cent. finished 3$\frac{5}{16}$ lower at its minimum of 95, Conversion 3½ per cent. dropped 3⅛ to the same price, and several others also were quoted at their minima.

The Foreign section continued lifeless, and dealers were satisfied to leave most issues at their previous closing rates. Brazilian Bonds fell back all round, however, and, among far Easterns, Japanese 6 per cent. 1924 proved especially dull at 34½. The most noteworthy movement among Europeans was a sharp decline in French Railway Bonds, both the Midi and Orleans being 5 points down.

British Rails offered little resistance to the general trend, and, like Gilt-edged, they became increasingly dull during the afternoon. The Junior stocks finally showed losses ranging up to 1½, by which amount Great Western Ord. reacted to 28½. Southern Pref. and Defd., together with L.M.S. Ord., were a point lower. The Prior Charges were equally flat, with L.M.S. issues prominent among the weaker features. Foreign Rails formed another heavy group, and, among Colonials, Canadas lost ½ to 5.

INDUSTRIALS NOMINAL

TOBACCOS HARDEST HIT

Business in the Industrial market was brought almost to a standstill. Prices were lowered still further, and margins widened in order to discourage sellers. In some cases it was found difficult to deal, except in a small number of shares, and quotations for the most part were more or less nominal.

Tobacco shares were the chief sufferers. "Bats" fell ⅜ to 3½, Gallahers ¼ to 4, "Imps" ½ to 4½, and Carreras "A" ½ to 3¾, while Godfrey Phillips and Tobacco Securities also reacted. Losses among Breweries were also fairly heavy. Ind Coope were marked down 3s. to 54s. Distillers 3s. to 51s. 6d., and South African Ord. 3s. to 92s. ex div. Bass, Ratcliff gave way 1s. 6d., Guinness 1s. Mitchells and Butlers 2s., and Watney Defd. 2s.

There was a general lowering of quotations for Iron, Coal and Steel shares, of which a certain amount of scattered selling was reported from the provinces. Electric Supply shares were fairly steady, but Equipment issues were very depressed. British Insulated lost $\frac{3}{16}$ at 3½. Callendars ¼ to 2½, and General 3s. at 64s. Aircrafts and Motors were also adversely affected.

In the Stores group Woolworths were scaled down 1s. 6d. to 46s., and Marks and Spencer 1s. 3d. to 32s. 3d., while Tate and Lyle relapsed 5s. to 43s. nominal. Rayons and Textiles were no exception to the general trend. Courtaulds weakened 2s. 9d. to 23s. 3d., J. and P. Coats 1s. 3d. to 26s. 10½d., and Sewing Cottons 1s. 3d. to 27s. 6d. In other directions, Dunlops fell 3s. to 24s. 6d., Imperial Chemicals 1s. 6d. to 24s. 3d., Barry and Staines 1s. 6d. to 20s., Boots Drug 1s. 6d. to 33s., British Aluminium 1s. 3d. to 42s. 6d., Lever and Unilever 2s. to 21s., and Turner and Newall ¼ to 2½. Bank and Insurance shares also weakened.

MINING SHARE LOSSES

Sentiment deteriorated badly in the Mining market, and in the closing hour or so prices were unable to offer much resistance to the weaker trend. Turnover was always limited, but at the close numerous substantial losses were recorded.

In Kaffirs the completion of the dividend declarations in Saturday's paper counted for less than nothing. Lowering and widening of quotations precluded the possibility of any considerable selling, but at the close the whole list made a dismal showing.

In the "Heavies" Sub Nigel dropped ¼ to 8, and Crowns ¼ to 13½, while Geduld at 6¾ were ¼ lower, and East Geduld fell ¼ to 9. Falls of ⅛ were frequent, and many other losses were recorded. In the Developing Mines W. Holdings fell to 6s. 9d. and W. Reefs at 10s. were both 6d. lower. Finance issues showed up no better, Gold Fields dropping ⅛ to 1½, and Central Mining ¼ to 10¼, while several other smaller losses occurred.

The record of other Gold Shares was not materially better. In West Africans, Ashantis again were a notably depressed market, the shares closing ¼ down at 1$\frac{15}{16}$, while Bibiani, at 15/-, lost 1/-. There were a few other weak spots. Diamond issues were uncertain, but there was hardly any business in this market. Tin Shares where changed were easier. The Rhodesian Coppers gave way uniformly down the list. Rhokana, at 7, were ½ down; Rhoanglos weakened 9d. to 12/-, and Nchangas ⅛ to ⅞. There was not much interest in Lead Zinc issues.

OILS FINISH AT WORST

No real selling pressure was encountered in the Oil Share market, but, nevertheless, prices developed an easier trend. Towards the close a certain amount of bear closing was in evidence, but this failed to bring about any recovery in the better class shares, which generally finished at the worst. It was only in a few cases, however, that losses were important.

Among the leaders, "Shells" were finally ⅛ down at 2½; Royal Dutch remained nominal at 20 to 22, which showed a fall of 1½. Shells Unions, however, moved up $\frac{3}{64}$ to $11. Burmahs were a dull spot, falling $\frac{3}{16}$ to 2$\frac{7}{16}$, and Anglo-Iranians gave way ⅛ to 1$\frac{25}{32}$. The Eagle issues suffered from neglect, and Mexicans lost 4½d., while Canadians were 6d. down.

Lower prices were general elsewhere, mainly as a result of lack of interest. Despite the satisfactory showing made by the report, Anglo-Egyptian "B" fell $\frac{3}{32}$ to 1½ ex div. V.O.C. and Lobitos declined $\frac{1}{16}$. Anglo-Ecuadorians gave way 9d., and British Borneos weakened 6d.

DUTCH UNILEVER INTERESTS

HOLLAND AND BELGIUM PLANTS DAMAGED

As a result of arrangements recently concluded, the whole of the United States, South America, Philippine, Belgian Congo, China Thai and Asiatic Turkey interests of Lever Brothers and Unilever N.V. have been transferred to a South African subsidiary company which is operating from Durban. This company was formed some two years ago, when, as a result of an exchange of interests between the English and Dutch Unilever Companies, some £11,000,000 was owed by the Dutch to the British company, and shares in subsidiary companies in the above-named countries were lodged to secure the debt. It is these shares which now form the basis of the South African Company.

Apart from the Dutch company's interests in France, which were acquired by the English company last year, all assets of Unilever N.V. outside German occupied territory are vested by Royal Decree in the Netherlands Government for the period of the war.

Officials of the company who escaped from Holland at the time of the invasion say that of the company's fifteen plants in that country, at least, three have been seriously damaged. Plants in Belgium have also suffered. The principal French plants are at Marseilles, Bordeaux, Lille, Nantes and Paris. The company's factories in Norway and Denmark are, according to advices just received, intact.

Despite the fact that most of the company's large holdings of whale oil, fish oil and vegetable oils were destroyed at the time of the invasion, and only small stocks of margarine have been maintained, it is thought likely that the Germans may have succeeded in seizing moderately important quantities of vegetable oilseeds.

An announcement may be expected shortly on arrangements to protect the dividend interests of Ordinary shareholders in the Dutch company.

CALM MONEY MARKET

The news of the French Government's decision was calmly received in the London Money Market yesterday. The repercussions of the developments in France upon British banks are not expected to be severe. French banking concerns in London were actually continuing to meet their commitments yesterday. An official announcement upon the position of French institutions in Britain is expected as soon as the political situation in France has been cleared up.

There was a slight falling off in the clearing bank demand for bills, but market houses with short-dated paper to sell found no difficulty in securing a market at 1 per cent. Other rates were also unchanged, except for the six months' commercial bill, which was quoted at about 2$\frac{1}{16}$, compared with 2¼ per cent. previously. Money was in comparatively plentiful supply, there being no sign of unusual calling. Overnight loans were obtained at the usual rates.

Silver was depressed by a little general selling. Spot dropped $\frac{1}{16}$d. to 23d. per ounce, while forward lost $\frac{1}{16}$d. to 21$\frac{15}{16}$d. per ounce.

On official advice dealings in French francs were suspended in the foreign exchange market. Other rates were also to a large extent nominal.

RALLY FOLLOWS EARLY RELAPSE ON WALL STREET

(FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, Monday.

Following a momentary jolt, the Stock market rallied substantially in the afternoon, and the belief that the possible cancellation of war orders by France will be taken up by Great Britain or Washington cushioned the market. The turnover of 1,210,000 shares comprised 766 issues, of which 221 advanced, and 407 declined.

After some accelerated selling, particularly in the Steels and Motors, trading turned very dull, with support lifting prices anything to a point from the low levels. However, at midday a long list remained fractions to 3 points lower. While mostly ranging to a point down in the early afternoon, the market recovered, with the Rubbers notably gaining 1 to 3 points.

The closing tone was uncertain.

Sterling exchange opened ¼c. higher at $3.66, and closed ¾c. higher at $3.66½. Silver was ¼c. lower at 34¾c.

CONSTIPATION KEEPS A CHILD BACK

Regular bowel action is vital to sturdy growth and full development of body and brain. Unless a child's bowels move regularly he will be weakly, peevish, pale and generally backward. So if your child is constipated, attend to it without delay. But whatever you do be careful what opening medicine you give, because purging weakens a child and leaves the bowels worse bound than ever.

To ensure regular bowel action and overcome constipation, doctors and nurses everywhere advise 'California Syrup of Figs.' They have proved it to be safe and effective. Moreover, they know that to cure constipation you must use a liquid laxative so that you can regulate the dose to suit the system and reduce it as the bowels begin to act normally. You should never give strong purgatives to children.

'California Syrup of Figs' is ideal. It is composed of pure vegetable extracts with ripe fruit in which is stored the glorious health-giving sunshine of California. No wonder children love its delicious flavour. Give your child a regular weekly dose for a time and see how it helps him to thrive. Be sure to ask for 'California Syrup of Figs' brand. Obtainable everywhere at 1/3 and 2/6. The larger size is the cheaper in the long run.

OVER ONE HUNDRED MEN DISCHARGED

ACTION OF DUBLIN TRAMWAYS COMPANY

About one hundred and seventy men employed by the Dublin United Tramways Company at the Inchicore Works have received notice of discharge.

This action is in pursuance of a reorganisation necessitated by the virtual impossibility of obtaining materials required for continuing the 'bus building programme on present lines.

When the essential reorganisation and adjustments have been completed, it is hoped to find employment for a proportion of the men now discharged.

"THE BRIDE'S BOOK"

A helpful book, in magazine format, for young brides and engaged girls has just been issued under the title of "The Bride's Book" (1s.), by Messrs. Cahill and Co., Ltd., Dublin. Its 76 pages contain many articles of considerable interest, and cover a wide range of subjects, from choosing a home to arranging a wedding group for a photograph. People are frequently puzzled about what to give as wedding presents; this book contains a very useful list, in addition to the large volume of other information on the hundred-and-one details that must be remembered in the prelude to matrimony.

IRISH TOURIST ASSOCIATION ESSAY CONTEST

Owing to the many requests received, the judges of the Irish Tourist Association Six-Guinea Essay Contest have agreed to extend the time limit for entrants from June 17 to June 24, the prizes being awarded for the best-written and most original essay on "My Favourite Ten-day Tour of Ireland." The contest is being held in connection with the showing at the Carlton of the film, "Ten Days in Paris," and is sponsored by the Irish Tourist Association and the Carlton Cinema.

The adjudicators will be Mr. Brinsley MacNamara and Mr. D. Barry.

A meeting of wardens and residents of the Dublin A.R.P. No. 2 Area, which will be addressed by Mr. Sean Moylan, Parliamentary Secretary; Major O'Sullivan, Department of Defence, and others, will be held in the C.Y.M.S. Hall, Claude road, Drumcondra, to-morrow evening.

LIBEL ACTION SETTLED

JUDGMENT FOR £400

APOLOGY AND WITHDRAWAL

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

A SETTLEMENT of the libel action of Lieutenant-General Michael Brennan, Chief Superintendent of Divisions in the Office of Public Works, and formerly Chief of Staff of the Defence Forces, against the Daily Telegraph, Ltd., Fleet street, London, was announced. The defendants consented to judgment for £400 and costs, and judgment was given for the plaintiff accordingly.

When the case was called, Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C., who, with Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C., and Mr. W. O'B. FitzGerald (instructed by Messrs. M. J. Horgan and Son), appeared for Lieutenant-General Brennan, stated that the defendants had consented to judgment for the amount mentioned, and there would be a statement of apology "for this most serious libel" and a withdrawal.

Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., who, with Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Miss Deverell (instructed by Messrs. Hamilton and Craig), appeared for the Daily Telegraph, Ltd., said that on behalf of the defendants he wished to state that when the matter complained of was published there was no intention to reflect in any way on Lieutenant-General Brennan, either in his personal capacity or in his capacity as a soldier.

Mr. Justice Hanna—What is it all about?

Mr. Costello said that the matter complained of was published in the issue of the Daily Telegraph on January 23 last. It was as follows:—

"Eire Changes its Chief of Staff.
"I.R.A. Raid Sequel.
"From Our Own Correspondent.
"Dublin, Monday.

THE STATEMENT

"It was officially announced here to-night that Major-General Michael Brennan, who has been Chief of Staff of the Eire Army since 1922, will retire on January 29, with the rank of Lieutenant-General. He will be replaced by Colonel Daniel McKenna, now Deputy Quartermaster-General, who will be given the rank of Major-General. General Brennan will take up an appointment as Chief Superintendent in the Office of the Board of Works.

"It is believed that these changes are associated with events which followed the I.R.A. raid on the Magazine Fort in Phœnix Park on December 24, when over 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition were stolen. Most of this has been recovered."

The first paragraph of that publication, said Mr. Costello, stated facts which were entirely accurate. It stated that Major-General Brennan when he retired would be given the rank of Lieutenant-General, which was promotion, and that he would also be given a position in the Board of Works. The publication then went on to say that these events were associated not with the raid on the Magazine Fort, but with events following the raid.

TOOK EXCEPTION TO PHRASE

The Daily Telegraph certainly had had no intention of libelling Lieutenant-General Brennan, good, bad or indifferent; their motives were entirely the contrary. It appeared, however, that Lieutenant-General Brennan took exception to the phrase: "associated with events which followed the I.R.A. raid. . . ." and that some people regarded that as an aspersion on his capacity.

"To the extent to which that is believed," Mr. Costello continued, "we withdraw and apologise. We had no intention of reflecting on Lieutenant-General Brennan, either in his personal capacity or in his professional capacity as a soldier. We consent to judgment."

Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, K.C., for Lieutenant-General Brennan, said that his retirement from his position as Chief of Staff of the Defence Forces had been determined by the Executive Council over a fortnight before the raid on the Magazine Fort had occurred, and had no reference of any kind or in any way to that raid. It was the normal retirement of a person from an office which he had held for eight years, and was not a sequel to anything which had happened on December 24th, 1939, at the Magazine Fort.

Mr. Costello—I accept that statement. In fact, I did not know the facts as stated.

ROAD ACCIDENTS

SETTLEMENTS ANNOUNCED

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA.)

The following settlements were announced:

Mrs. Gladys Boland and her husband, Michael Boland boot and shoe manufacturer, Frascati Park, Blackrock, County Dublin, who were injured when a motor car in which they were travelling was involved in a collision with a van of George A. Patrick McDermott, Cursus Stream, Palmerston, County Dublin, who, while driving a donkey and cart at Palmerston on February 19 last, was struck by a motor car of Dr. Humphrey A. O'Leary, Letterkenny, to receive £151 and costs

Mr. J. V. Nolan-Whelan, K.C., and Mr. Felix Sherry (instructed by Messrs. Brady and Briscoe) appeared for Mr. McDermott; and Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., and Mr. C. S. Casey (instructed by Messrs. Hickey and O'Reilly) for Dr. O'Leary

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MARTIN MAGUIRE.)

Miss Mary Mannion, Ballyline, Curraghboy, Athlone, who was injured when a motor car which she was driving and a motor car of Bernard Hayden, Church street, Strokestown, County Roscommon, were involved in a collision at Gortaganny, Moylough, County Galway, on August 2 last to receive £200 and costs.

Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., Mr. Barra O Briain, K.C., and Mr. P. J. Nugent (instructed by Mr. T. J. C. O'Keeffe) appeared for Miss Mannion and Mr. Diarmuid Fawsitt, K.C., and Mr. J. J. Durcan (instructed by Mr. William B. Montgomery) for Mr. Hayden.

Bernard O'Hanlon, Mitchel street, Thurles, who was struck by a motor lorry of John O'Connor, Main street, Cashel, near Cleriban, on March 27, 1939, to receive an ex gratia payment of £100

Mr. P. J. McEnery, K.C., and Mr. James I. McGuire (instructed by Messrs. James J. Ryan and Son) appeared for Mr. O'Hanlon; and Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C., and Mr. J. L. Esmond (instructed by Mr. Henry Shannon) for Mr. O'Connor.

Hilda O'Toole, a minor, suing by her mother, Mrs. Helen O'Toole, Mill lane, Shanganagh, to receive an ex gratia payment of £75 for injuries received when she was struck by a motor car of Dr. Oswald Murphy, Flowersgrove, Killiney, at Shanganagh on November 21 last.

Mr. Diarmuid Fawsitt, K.C., Mr. P. J. McEnery, K.C. and Mr. Bruce Mathieson (instructed by Mr. W. Boyle Fawsitt) appeared for Hilda O'Toole; and Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C., and Mr. C. S. Casey (instructed by Mr Gore-Grimes) for Dr. Murphy.

This year a driver's seven best trials count so that the closing up process should start after the next two trials take place.

Red Tape

THERE has been a tendency everywhere to regiment our motor-car and motor-cycle racing, and to wrap what should be a game in a tangle of red tape. The Irish Motor Racing Club, as it existed in 1932 and 1933, tried to demonstrate that motoring really was a sport, and that events should be run for enjoyment rather than the glorification of the club, the officials or the competitors, but subsequently the I.M.R.C. became the most red tapish of the lot.

A few of us from time to time have endeavoured to persuade promoters to write their regulations in plain English, but plain English looks too easy, and promoters must have rules that look as though they had been written by a verbose lawyer in his dotage. Similarly, it has been impossible to make club officials understand that the only things that really matter in a race are that the safety of competitors and spectators should be safeguarded, and that a fair-do should be given to all riders.

Irish clubs are not alone to blame for this tendency. It seems to be fairly general, and English commentators actually have described as "informal" Irish races that seemed to us to be burdened with officialdom.

Of course, informality can go too far. A few years ago one of our clubs altered the results of a race in a way that deserved severe condemnation, and when I told them they were not exactly playing the game according to the rules they took refuge in baby talk and said that they were "just a lot of lads."

At Cork

THE foregoing reflections occurred to me on my way back from the Munster Club's 75 miles race to Cork. I thought the race most enjoyable, and I saw no weakness in the organisation. Of course, we all know that in every race little things occur behind the scenes to show us that we are not perfect, but it is what the public sees that provides the test by which a meeting is to be judged.

I didn't go prying into the secrets of the Munster Club. I judged the show as an experienced motor race-goer should, and I found it excellent. After the race I heard a man being critical, and had to point out to him that he was measuring the race against such events as the Leinster "Two Hundred" or one of the car races. The nearest equivalent to the Munster event was the old Athy "Seventy-five." Compared with it, or with the smaller Ulster races of the past—the Belfast "Hundred," the Dungannon "Hundred," the Temple, Cookstown, Ballydrain or Enniskillen races—the Munster "Seventy-five" was an admirable affair.

The short course means that an entry of ten or twelve is enough to provide plenty of excitement. I wonder were the riders really sincere when they said that it was so short it made them dizzy? Still, I think 75 miles is too long a race on a 1½ miles circuit. Next year the Munster Club should run two heats of 25 miles each, with the first six in each heat taking part in a 25 miles final. That is Athol Harrison's idea. It might be elaborated.

Racing Abroad

AMERICA'S biggest race, the Indianapolis "Five Hundred," has been won by Wilbur Shaw, who also won in 1937 and 1939. The only other man who has won the race three times is Louis Meyer, who was Shaw's manager and pit controller this year. Shaw drove a Maserati, and he averaged 114.28 m.p.h.

The French Army had given Lebegue (whose fast lap in the 1936 T.T. in Ulster, you may recall) and Dreyfus (whose victory at Cork in 1938 you undoubtedly will remember) permission to compete. Lebegue's machine broke a connecting rod in practice, and Dreyfus does not seem to have been in the picture. During practice George Bailey was fatally injured when his Miller went on fire after crashing at a corner and ripping up 150 feet of guard-rail.

Villoresi won a race at Palermo on the 23rd May. It was a poor sort of affair, all-Italian, and with only two modern motors. Why the authorities permitted it to be called "Targa Florio" no one seems to know.

Nearer Home

ENTRIES for the Dublin "Hundred" are coming in—slowly, perhaps, but nevertheless coming in. The race is to be held on 6th July in the Phœnix Park at 3.30 p.m., and it will differ in no important way from previous Park "hundreds." The national championships will be decided in conjunction with the race.

Marshals are needed, and I have been asked by the club to make an appeal for the assistance of those who are willing to take a part in running the show. The chief marshal is Mr. E. P. Hurse, and the club's address is 37 Exchequer street.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT

ISSUE OF SANITY

The trial of Private James Fennell (22), a native of Maynooth, stationed at Collins Barracks, Cork, who is accused of the murder of Sergeant Stephen Ryan, of Mullagh, County Clare, at Collins Barracks, Cork, on February 11th last has been adjourned pending a decision by the Supreme Court on an application for an order directing that notice of appeal should be received from the finding of a Central Criminal Court jury that Fennell was sane and fit to stand his trial.

When the case was mentioned, Mr. J. A. McCarthy K.C., who is appearing for the State, with Mr. G. D. Murnaghan, applied for the adjournment until such time as the Supreme Court's decision had been delivered.

The President of the High Court (Mr. Justice Conor Maguire) granted the adjournment and said the case would not be taken before next Monday

Mr. O. Moriarty K.C., and Mr. P. Sullivan (instructed by Mr. E. A. O'Connell) appeared for Fennell

OBITUARY

DR. MARK RYAN

The death occurred yesterday at his residence, 132 Lindsay road, Dublin, of Dr. Mark Ryan. Dr. Mark Ryan was a prominent figure in the old Fenian days. Born in November, 1844, at Kilconly, County Galway, he was brought into the Fenian movement in 1861 in Lancashire, where his family had gone to reside after they were evicted from their homestead in County Galway. It was there that he met Michael Davitt, Arthur Foster, author of "The Felon's Cap," and John Denvir. He was actively engaged with them as a Fenian agent for years and in sending arms to Ireland while he was trying to earn a livelihood. He practised his profession as a doctor in London for close on half a century.

In Tuam he had served Mass for Archbishop McHale, and he became a close personal friend of the Rev. Ulick Burke, the Gaelic scholar. He was a personal friend of James Stephens, John O'Leary, Charles Kickham, Clarke Luby, O'Donovan Rossa, Captain McCafferty, P. W. Nally, Major McBride and other leaders of the revolutionary movement of 1848, '67 and 1916.

In the course of his long career, Dr. Ryan won the respect and friendship of men and women who had no sympathy with his Fenian principles. In or about 1924 he left London, and had since resided with a brother and a sister in Lindsay road, Glasevin, Dublin. A native Irish speaker, he was a warm supporter of the language movement, and was never happier than when conversing in Gaelic with a friend. In spite of his heavy burden of years he was comparatively active. In March, 1936, he was presented with an oil painting of himself which was subscribed for by persons associated with different political parties, for he had the great gift of making and retaining friends in all stations of life and of the most diverse opinions. He was esteemed for his hospitality, kindliness, and old-world courtesy.

THE REV. JAMES McGILLIGAN, C.C.

The death has occurred suddenly, at his residence, Carrickmore, County Tyrone, of the Rev. James McGilligan, C.C., B.D. Father McGilligan, who was a native of Swateragh, County Derry, was ordained at Maynooth in 1924, and had served at Killyclogher, Omagh; Lisson, Cookstown, and for the past eleven years in Carrickmore. He was Chairman of County Tyrone Gaelic Athletic Association Committee, and of Tyrone Feis Committee.

MR. W. B. CHARTRES

The death occurred on Sunday last of Mr. William B. Chartres, who, for over forty years, had been engaged on the sporting staff of the Belfast Telegraph. Mr. Chartres was a keen footballer in his younger days. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

DUBLIN 48 MARY ST. RATHMINES DUN LAOGHAIRE BRAY

WEDDINGS

MR. J. G. GIBSON AND MISS J. M. ARMSTRONG

The wedding took place yesterday at Christ Church, Dun Laoghaire, of Mr. John G. Gibson, Royal Corps of Signals, elder son of the late Mr. George Gibson and Mrs. Gibson, Mountdalton, Rathconrath, Mullingar, and Miss Joy M. Armstrong, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Armstrong, Newrath, Kells, County Meath.

The Service was conducted by the Rev. A. W. R. Camier, assisted by the Rev. W. B. Allman.

The bride who was given away by her father, wore a blue dress, with a picture hat to tone, and carried a bouquet of pink sweet pea. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Armstrong, who wore a navy blue ensemble, with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of mauve and white sweet pea.

Mr. Joseph Gibson-Brabazon acted as best man.

LIEUT. JOHN LANGAN AND MISS M. LENIHAN

At the Church of Christ the King, Salthill, Galway, yesterday, the wedding took place of Lieutenant John Langan, Army Medical Service, Cork, and Miss Marie Lenihan, daughter of Mr. F. Lenihan, L.D.S., and Mrs. Lenihan, of Rockbarton, Salthill. Lieutenant Langan is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Langan, of Ballyglass, County Mayo.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Horan, St. Mary's College, Galway. Captain W. Keane acted as best man.

The bride was attended by her twin sister.

MR. JAMES J. CLUNE AND MISS BERYL CLANCY

The wedding took place yesterday at the Church of the Holy Rosary, Harold's Cross, Dublin, of Mr. James J. Clune, second son of Mr. M. J. and Mrs. Clune, Post Office, Tuam, County Galway, and Beryl, second daughter of Captain and Mrs. Clancy, "Larkfield," Kimmage, Dublin.

Mr. M. A. Clune (brother of the bridegroom) acted as best man, and Miss Myrtle Clancy (sister of the bride) was bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. P. Crean, C.C.

The honeymoon will be spent in Northern Ireland.

IRISH WILLS

Mrs. Alicia Reddy, of Cullodon, Mullingar, Westmeath, who died on March 15th last, has left personal property in England and Eire of the value of £16,913.

Mr. Michael Joseph Kennedy, of The Retreat, Salthill, Galway, who died on December 16th last, has left personal estate in England and Eire of the value of £16,524.

Organ Dedicated.—A new pipe organ and pulpit erected in Trinity Presbyterian Church, Omagh, at a cost of £1,000, in memory of the late Lieut.-Colonel Andrew Buchanan and his wife, Mary Kyd Buchanan, were dedicated yesterday by the Rev. J. M. McIlrath, B.A., Belfast, and an organ recital was given by Mr. H. E. Hines.

The New Howth.—"Is there a scarcity of liquor in Howth?" asked District Justice O'Sullivan at Howth District Court yesterday. "I notice that there are no cases of drunkenness." Superintendent Cronin—"There is no scarcity of liquor, your worship, but the people of Howth are learning sense." (Laughter.)

MEN OF SELF-RESPECT USE GILLETTE

Whatever his state in life, a smooth close shave ministers to a man's self-respect. Indeed, with the coming of the Gillette system there is no longer any social distinction betrayed by his chin. For it is at once the most efficient and the most economical shave there is. No man can buy a good shave for less, nor a better shave by paying more; and every man, however self-denying in his habits, succumbs to the velvety comfort that only Gillette can give.

Sunt Lacrimae Rerum

France must cease to fight. Throughout the civilised world yesterday men's hearts almost stood still as these fateful tidings were flashed across the earth. After less than forty days French resistance to the armed might of Germany had collapsed, and the veteran Marshal Pétain, hero of Verdun, was suing for peace. Let us set down the sequence of facts as we know them. Some days ago it was announced by an American commentator that France was about to make a separate peace with Germany. This statement was denied indignantly both in London and in France, and it was evident from the tone of Monsieur Paul Reynaud's appeal to President Roosevelt that the French Government was prepared to fight to the bitter end. Monsieur Reynaud and his ministerial colleagues had left Paris for Tours; but the military situation continued to worsen, and they were forced to withdraw to Bordeaux, whither, it will be remembered, the French Government had retired in 1914. On Sunday it became evident that grave decisions were being contemplated. Reports from the front became more and more alarming. Not only had the Germans broken through the French defences in the Champagne; they were reported to have smashed their way through the famous Maginot Line in the Saar neighbourhood, and Berlin claimed to have turned the flank of the French armies from Montmédy to the Swiss frontier. The Germans were advancing on both sides of Paris—towards the south-west as well as towards the south-east. Everywhere the French were retreating in good order. There could be no question anywhere of a rout or even of a panic; but, apparently, the military experts realised that, without substantial help from the United States, a prolonged resistance to the German offensive would be impossible. The French troops, inferior in numbers, hopelessly outclassed in respect of tanks and aircraft, out-generalled, outmanœuvred, and outwitted, had been fighting without respite for more than five weeks. Flesh and blood had endured more than ever they had endured in history. No words could do justice to the heroism of those humble French soldiers, who fought until they could fight no more. They have written an imperishable page in the story of human valour.

Monsieur Reynaud's Cabinet held meeting after meeting on Sunday. There were rumours of "stormy scenes," and those who could read between the lines of the bald communiqués that were issued from time to time realised that the French Government was being torn between fearful alternatives. It was suggested that, in accordance with Monsieur Reynaud's statement to President Roosevelt, the Government might be contemplating withdrawal into North Africa, whence the struggle against Germany could be continued on sea and in the air; but when the news came that the Prime Minister and most of his colleagues had resigned, to be succeeded by the eighty-four year old Marshal Pétain, there no longer could be much doubt regarding the truth. Yesterday, "with a broken heart," France's grand old soldier told the people of France that "fighting must cease." It seems that during the night he had approached the Germans through the good offices of the Spanish Ambassador in order to find out the terms on which an armistice would be granted. As we write, no precise details are available, but it is stated that Herr Hitler has invited Signor Mussolini to meet him in Versailles to discuss the matter. The Duce with his son-in-law left Rome last evening, and the meeting between the two dictators probably will take place to-day. According to messages from Berlin, there will be no armistice. The French army still is being harassed by the Germans, and there will be no cessation of hostilities until the French Government shall have accepted the victor's final terms. Must France drink the cup of humiliation to the dregs? Heine, who knew, and loved her, wrote

"Arme, arme Frankensöhne
Euch war nicht das Schicksal hold."

Certainly fate has not been kind to the France that we know. Six weeks ago her people believed themselves to be secure behind the Maginot Line; to-day their beloved country—"the gay, lilied fields of France"—is under the heel of the conquering invader. Yet the soul of France is immortal; and her stricken body will not die.

France for the moment is vanquished; but the war goes on. In a brief, but striking, broadcast last night the Prime Minister of England declared that the news from France would make "no difference to Britain's faith and purpose." "We have become the sole champion now in arms to defend the world cause," said Mr. Churchill; "we shall do our best to be worthy of that high honour." Up to the last moment the British Government did everything in its power to prevent the French collapse. It was revealed last night that on Sunday Mr. Churchill had offered to enact a solemn Act of Union between France and Great Britain—a proposal unique in world history—and it would seem as if Monsieur Reynaud and some of his colleagues were prepared to accept it. Fate decided otherwise, and now Great Britain must fight alone. Mr. Churchill's broadcast was worthy of the highest traditions of statesmanship. "I grieve for the gallant French people," he said, "who have fallen into this terrible misfortune. Nothing will alter our feelings towards them or our faith that the genius of France will rise again." There was not a word of reproach, not a word of recrimination. The people of the British Commonwealth share the agony of their French allies, who fought the good fight to the limit of human endurance; now they must face a darkening future, depending only on themselves. Nobody can tell when or how the blow will fall upon Great Britain; nobody can doubt that it will fall. From the beginning Herr Hitler has declared that he has no quarrel with France; Britain is the enemy. Signor Mussolini has been equally outspoken, and, now that French opposition has been broken, Germany and Italy alike will be free to turn their undivided attention to the British. We do not know what has become of the French navy; the situation in the Mediterranean is obscure. Presumably, President Roosevelt's offer of material help will continue to hold good; and, if a German invasion can be prevented, time will be on Great Britain's side. It would be idle to pretend that the outlook for Great Britain is not grim. Her people are facing heavy trials; they have faced them before with staunch hearts.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

"WE FIGHT ON"

The Times, in a leading article to-day, says:—"If necessary for years, if necessary alone, in those words a fortnight ago Mr. Churchill reminded the House of Commons what manner of warfare the British Empire has declared against tyranny. The blow that his warning dimly foreshadowed has now fallen. France, the proved heroic Ally in the trials and victories of a generation ago, and welcomed as something closer than an Ally in the grimmer trials of to-day, is no longer at our side. By the middle of last week it had become apparent that the smashing onslaught of the German aerial and mechanised forces might, in the end, unless it were halted, become too much even for the valour of the French Army to resist. Since that time the French forces have suffered further catastrophies. Their right wing has been shattered by a tremendous thrust into Burgundy, which has cut the connexion between the field army and the Maginot Line, taken the line in the rear along its whole length, and, by the time the Cease Fire was sounded yesterday, reached the frontier of Switzerland. It is quite impossible as yet to estimate the effect of this immense disaster upon the future course of the war. We do not yet know the terms of the armistice; indeed, it seems that the Marshal has done what even the German Government of 1918 did not do—ordered his troops to lay down their arms first and attempted to arrange the terms of capitulation afterwards.

The conditions to be imposed upon France are, no doubt, being discussed at the interview arranged between Hitler and Mussolini. Many vital questions remain to be answered. It is known that most of the British Expeditionary Force and the Royal Air Force have already been withdrawn from France, but how is the position of the remainder affected? How much of the Allied war supplies falls into German hands? Is the submission made on behalf of the entire French Empire, or, on the Dutch precedent, for European France only; or, alternatively, if the French Colonies have been ordered from Bordeaux to surrender, can the order be enforced? More especially, what now becomes of the great French Army, now serving under General Mittelhauser in the Near East, and can Italy claim, or make effective, the handing over of Tunis? Most crucial of all—what of the French Navy, the most powerful in Europe after our own? Very little intelligence concerning its distribution has been made public. A strong contingent is known to be at Alexandria serving under a British Admiral. These ships at least, it may be assumed, will not go to Hitler until he comes to fetch them. For the rest of the Fleet, it remains to be seen whether they have escaped to sea en route for British ports; or, if they are still in harbour, whether they need necessarily fall into the enemy's hands. The answer to many of these questions will depend on a larger one—what degree of authority can be effectively asserted by the new Government over the conscience of Frenchmen in responsible positions and over a people who, great as have been their sufferings, have shown no disposition to flinch from their martyrdom?"

MORE PASSENGERS BY AIR

PEOPLE NOW PREFER QUICK TRAVEL

The increase in the returns of the passenger traffic by air is not due entirely to the dangers and inconveniences of surface travel, said Mr. S. M. O'Connell, Public Relations Officer of Aer Lingus, Teoranta, speaking at the Dublin Rotary Club yesterday.

Mr. O'Connell said that a recent census of opinion among passengers showed that only 41 per cent. of new passengers had chosen to travel by air for safety reasons, whereas 65 per cent. mentioned that they had adopted air travel simply because they were convinced that it was faster and more comfortable than surface transport. Men and women engaged in business predominated among passengers, while the clergy and the professional classes were also prominent. Ministers of State and other prominent representatives of the Government now invariably travelled by air on missions of importance, while the "gentlemen of the turf" were great supporters of air travel. The number of women and children who travelled by air had increased enormously, a fact which augured well for the future.

Mr. O'Connell spoke of the development of air transport in Eire and of the means taken to make the people "air-minded." When the new airport at Collinstown was completed it would be one of Europe's finest and most important aerodromes. Work on the terminal buildings and hangars had not been held up unduly owing to the war, and it was anticipated that, providing no hitch occurred in the meantime, the official opening would take place in about a year. The war had not damped the enthusiasm for Aer Lingus to render what service it could to the travelling public, and so far as it lay in the company's power no opportunity for extra business occasioned by the war would be allowed to pass.

To-day there were two services operating in each direction between Dublin and Liverpool. It had not been found possible to re-open Sunday services as yet, and he was afraid that neither would it be possible to re-open the Dublin-Isle of Man holiday service this summer. They shortly would be opening new booking offices, which would include waiting-rooms, at Lower O'Connell street. Since October 23rd last, although they were now only operating a service to Liverpool, the number of passengers carried amounted to 4,634, a figure which was about the same as the total number carried during the entire traffic year of 1938-39, when they were operating services to London, Bristol and the Isle of Man.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was proposed by Mr. T. R. Sparkes, seconded by Mr. M. W. O'Reilly.

Mr. Vincent O'Hare (incoming Vice-President) presided.

CORRESPONDFNCE TO BELGIANS

The Belgian Legation in Dublin announces that the International Red Cross Society at Berne has organised a service for correspondence to Belgians residing in Belgium (civilians and soldiers).

This correspondence must be written on a "message form" and may not exceed 25 words. The cost is seven pence.

These forms are issued by "Service Bureaux," the addresses of which can be obtained at post offices in London.

These bureaux are the local branches of the Central Office: "The National Council for Social Service," 26 Bedford square, London, W.C.1.

Enquiries about Belgian officers and men at present in England should be addressed to "Belgian Military Camp, Tenby, Pembrokeshire." Enquiries about Belgian refugees in England to "Information Bureau for Belgians," 40 Eaton square, London, S.W.1.

25 YEARS AGO

From the Irish Times, 18th June, 1915.

Waterloo.

The newspaper contained an eight page supplement to mark the centenary of the Battle of Waterloo.

A leading article, headed "1815-1915," said: This day is the hundredth anniversary of the battle which saved Europe from the tyranny of one man. The centenary of Waterloo finds us engaged in an even deadlier struggle for freedom, and we accept as a good omen its august burden of memory and pride. At a first glance we are chiefly impressed with the contrasts between our country's situation in June, 1815, and its situation to-day. Then France was the enemy, and we defeated her with the help of Blücher's Prussians. To-day Germany, a Germany not only led but made by Prussia, is the great enemy. Our historic foe is now our first ally.

Cork Vessel Sunk.

News reached Cork this afternoon that the Trafford, a small coasting steamer chartered by Messrs. Furlong, millers, Cork, was torpedoed and sunk thirty miles west of the Tuskar. When torpedoed she was on her way to the Severn in ballast for a cargo of coal.

Russian Flag Day.

Yesterday was a Flag Day in Dublin for the Russian military ambulance work. Over 500 collectors were on the streets throughout the day selling tiny Russian flags.

PAINTINGS BY MR. N. NICHOLLS

A ONE-MAN SHOW

Mr. Nick Nicholls, a young artist from London, is holding his first one-man show at the Victor Waddington Gallery, 19 Nassau street, Dublin.

When so inclined, Mr. Nicholls can draw with sensitive truth, wholly pleasing. He can paint, too. Some of his pictures make a direct appeal with colour harmony and composition that is highly attractive. Unhappily, for the most part this show is comprised of crude colour juxtapositions, many, even, of forbidding statement. Both in drawing and composition the components of many subjects are offensively bizarre. He has painted three portraits—No. 1, "Study of a Young Woman"; No. 2, "My Mother," and No. 3, "Mr. Vaughan Briscoe." In these efforts the last has come off best, yet not too well: the bent arms are an anatomical sin. The young woman in No 1 is done in so disagreeable a manner that one conjectures that Mr. Nicholls is utterly dissatisfied with human form as created, and has essayed re-creation according to a personal conception. In No. 2, "My Mother," it is with difficulty and special care that one is enabled to discern the outline of feature, but the rest is an agglomeration of coloured spaces. It is possible that if the artist had so treated the subject in his earlier youth he might have taken up a position which would have led to a better result.

In No. 7, "Fitzwilliam Square," there is a very nice colour scheme, but the title is a misnomer, as no sufficient architectural appreciation appears to justify it, while perspectively the tiny figure in the middle distance gives the big tree the obtrusiveness of a photographic "close-up." No. 5, "Road Near Skerries," is an admirable rendering of one of the beautiful spots in this vicinity; tree-life is colourfully stated in this pleasant vista. In many of the pictures light is admirably managed.

LONDON LETTER

THE GRAVE NEWS FROM FRANCE

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

IN view of the latest news from France, the statement to be made by Mr. Churchill to-morrow in the House of Commons, now assumes an unusal degree of importance. That the situation is one of the utmost gravity is not denied, and people are speculating as to what will happen in the immediate future. The news that France is giving up the fight was heard in Fleet street on the wireless at one o'clock to-day, and the newspapers followed immediately afterwards. It was not altogether surprising after last night's announcements. Nevertheless it came as a great blow to the crowds that thronged the streets in the luncheon hour. There was no display of feeling except for expressions of sympathy with France in her hour of humiliation.

Financial Situation

On the Stock Exchange it is said that the news from France is unlikely to lead to any serious liquidation. It is improbable that Government securities will be very greatly affected, for while there are very few buyers, there are also few sellers. It is being realised that much of Britain's present troubles is due to the great expenditure during the past twenty years on things that were comparatively useless. The situation may be bad, but it has not yet passed beyond hope of recovery. There will have to be great changes as regards work, longer hours, elimination of leisure, and reduction in consumption.

The Marquess of Dufferin

The Marquess of Dufferin and Ava, who in view of his wish to join the forces, was not included in the late reconstruction of the British Government, is to join a Northern Ireland regiment, and may be quartered near his home in County Down. Lord Dufferin comes from a family of soldiers, two of his uncles being killed in the last war, while his father, the late Marquess who was killed in a dreadful air accident over Kent, served in both the Army and Navy, his first service being during the South African war and the other in the Ulster Division of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve during the last war.

Use of Saccharine

While saccharine is coming into use again as a substitute for sugar there is no question of its replacing sugar completely, since it possesses no food value. It is a sweetener, but, unlike sugar, it is not a source of energy, and can replace only a small portion of the two million tons of sugar normally consumed in a year. There are but two factory plants in the country manufacturing saccharine, but they are able to produce all that is likely to be required. The price has risen during the past few months from forty-nine shillings and sixpence per pound to ninety-eight shillings and fourpence, the great increase being due to an advance in the duty from thirty-six shillings per pound to eighty-three shillings and fourpence. Until recently large quantities of saccharine were sent to India and China, but exportation has been stopped by a decision of the British Government.

Air Raid Precautions

London householders are becoming more practical in the matter of air raid precautions. They have responded to official instructions regarding the covering of their windows to prevent damage by splinters of glass, and have chosen their strongest rooms to serve as shelters in case of raids. The practical precautions now being taken concern the keeping of a reserve of water. Despite all precautions, an air raid may stop the supply of water for a long time; the mains may be damaged; or the fire brigades may be taking all that is available. The first feeling in case of a raid will be one of thirst; people, therefore, are filling their kettles and jugs overnight in order that a supply may be at hand, and, as a further reserve, baths also are being kept filled. The bath water serves a two-fold purpose, as it may be used for drinking in the absence of any other supply, and also may be utilised for extinguishing fires caused by incendiary bombs.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Colonel Donovan

I was interested to learn that Colonel William J. ("Wild Bill") Donovan, who commanded the the famous New York Irish regiment—"The Fighting 69th"—in the last war, is now a leading lawyer in New York. In the film of "The Fighting 69th," which was seen in Dublin recently, his part was played by George Brent.

During the war Colonel Donovan was wounded three times, and won several decorations, including the Croix de Guerre avec palme and the United States Congressional Medal of Honour. When he returned to civil life he became a lawyer, and from 1925 to 1929 served as Assistant to the United States Attorney-General.

After this term in public office he returned to his attorney's practice, and has built himself a big reputation in New York legal circles. He is a Republican in politics, and in 1932 was that party's unsuccessful candidate for the post of Governor of New York.

Humfrey Symons

One of those who lectured at the Royal Dublin Society last winter was Mr. H. E. Symons, who told the members something of his great motoring ventures in Africa. I have just learned of his death in France. He had been serving with the Royal Air Force as a Flight-Lieutenant, and extracting a great deal of fun out of his work.

When his car fell from a thirty-feet bridge into a river full of crocodiles during his London to Cape Town trip, and he and his companion escaped with scratches, I thought that he surely was destined to die in his bed. In Monte Carlo rallies he had been through adventures and escapes in the most remote parts of Europe, and his book, "Monte Carlo Rally," is one of the most engaging books on motoring ever written.

He had visited Ireland many times, principally as a motoring journalist and as a race commentator of the British Broadcasting Company. Our Motoring Correspondent, who often had co-operated with him, says that there could have been no more pleasant fellow with whom to work. Symons loved good food and good wine, and he was full of good talk.

His death is one of the many that seem to bring the war very close to us.

Captain Gordon Store

I am sorry, too, to see the name of Flight-Lieutenant A. G. Store in a recent R.A.F. casualty list.

I knew him better as Captain Gordon Store, the record-breaking airman who flew with Miss Peggy Salaman to South Africa in 1931 during an interval in his work as instructor at a flying club. He joined Imperial Airways in 1934, and for some time was engaged on the Empire route to Durban and Singapore.

Last year he qualified for the Atlantic route, and distinguished himself in September, before being commissioned in the Air Force, by making a record flight from the Shannon to Newfoundland in the flying-boat Cabot.

His time for the trip, 13 hours 2 minutes, was twenty minutes better than that of Captain D. C. T. Bennett, who made the flight in the seaplane Mercury in 1938.

Flying Officer C. H. Bowes, who has been wounded, was the first officer on the first flying-boat to make the Atlantic crossing from Eire—the Caledonia, commanded by Captain A. S. Wilcockson.

An Unusual Medium

I was attracted by a very well-dressed jeweller's window one day recently. Almost the entire window space was given over to a display of weirdly-shaped ornaments fashioned from horn.

All the material was, of course, curved, and resulted in the most unconventional lines for sea-gulls, penguins and fishes, which formed the greater part of the subjects. Polished horn has a quite expensive-looking sheen, and the prices marked on each article seemed surprisingly low, considering the amount of work which must go into every ornament—because I doubt if such individuality had its birth in a machine.

These goods are made in France, and previously I had noticed comparatively few of them in our shops. I suppose that, with the luxury trades at a standstill in England and on the Continent, we will get much of the stuff which in the ordinary way would come no nearer than London.

Certainly these dark and light streaked ornaments bring some little beauty at a time when it is badly needed.

Writers' Nursery

An article in Ireland's Saturday Night recalls that it was in this paper that a number of Irishmen well known in the world of letters published their first attempts in journalism.

At the head of the list of those claimed is Lynn Doyle, whose first story to achieve the distinction of print appeared in its pages, to bring him the sum of ten shillings. Although the newspaper does not claim the honour of having been the first medium through which the work of St. John Ervine reached the public, it professes to have been among the first media.

James J. Corbett, the writer of detective fiction, who turns out stories to-day with a prolific pen from his home in Bristol, had his first acceptance by the paper, which published a tale from his pen called "A Turf Romance" when he was at the mature age of thirteen.

Cathal O'Byrne, an Irish journalist, who has a very considerable following of readers, and Thomas Carnduff, whose plays have an important amount of success, are also among those whose early writings got beyond the manuscript stage through Belfast's sporting weekly.

Muddled Reasoning

The following example of a somewhat muddled answer to the question: "Why are fire engines red?" has just reached me, and I pass it on—without any apology.

Fire engines have two pedals, a fireman has two feet, a half of two feet is one foot, one foot is a ruler, Queen Mary is a ruler, Queen Mary is a ship, a ship sails on the ocean, the ocean is full of fish, the fish have fins, the Finns fought the Russians, the Russians are Reds, fire engines are always rushin', so that is why fire engines are red!

Anyway, do you know why fire engines are red?

BRITAIN TO FIGHT ON, UNCONQUERABLE—MR. CHURCHILL

FRANCE SEEKS HONOURABLE PEACE

Hitler and Mussolini To Meet To-Day

GERMANS INSIST ON VICTOR'S TERMS

FRANCE seeks an honourable peace with Germany. Yesterday morning Marshal Petain, who became France's Prime Minister on Sunday night, spoke to the nation, saying: "It is with a broken heart that I tell you to-day that fighting must cease."

The Marshal, having said that he was sure of the affection of the admirable French Army, which was fighting with a heroism worthy of its traditions against an enemy superior in numbers and in arms, said that he gave himself to France in order to mitigate its misfortune.

Marshal Petain told the nation that "he had addressed himself to the enemy to ask him if he is prepared to seek with me, as between soldiers after an honourable fight, the means of putting an end to hostilities." The Marshal gave no indication that a reply had been received, and last night the French military spokesman announced that up to late yesterday afternoon there had been no response to the request for peace negotiations.

According to the official Stefani Agency, the German Command has demanded the continuation of the war or peace on the victor's terms. There would be no armistice.

Signor Mussolini left Rome at 8.30 p.m. (Italian time) yesterday for his meeting with Herr Hitler, according to a Rome despatch to the official German News Agency. He was accompanied by Count Ciano, the Chief of his Cabinet, Signor Begastianini; and the Deputy Chief of the General Staff, General Rotta. During the journey other important personages will join the train.

Before his departure Signor Mussolini received Marshal Badoglio, Chief of the General Staff, and had a long discussion with him on the military situation.

The meeting-place of the two dictators has not been disclosed, but reports indicate Versailles or Munich.

The French Foreign Minister, in a broadcast from Bordeaux last night, said:—"We are ready to lay down our arms if we can get an honourable peace, but we are never ready to accept shameful conditions, which would mean the end of spiritual freedom for our people."

Fighting continued in France yesterday. The military spokesman said that there was now no continuous French front, and that the French had lost great quantities of artillery and other equipment. Four French armies were divided by the German drive. The only army intact was the fourth, fighting on the Alps front, the Italians having failed to attack.

Marshal Petain disclosed that, in his contacts with Berlin, Spain was acting as intermediary.

BATTLE CONTINUED

NEW YORK, Monday.

The French Army was still fighting at 5.30 p.m. this afternoon, according to the French military spokesman, quoted by the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

In a broadcast from Bordeaux, the company's representative there said: "We have just come from a conference with the special military spokesman, and here is an important fact about the army situation. The French Army is still fighting. Arms had not yet been laid down, so far as we know, at 5.30 p.m. Bordeaux time (which is the same as British summer time).

"We were told by the official spokesman of the Ministry of War that purely military considerations dictated the French decision to sue now for peace. The peace conditions have not yet arrived.

REASONS FOR DECISION

"The French decision was particularly due to the situation of the land army, which, the spokesman said, he thought extremely grave, but not desperate.

"We were told that the navy is still entirely intact and the French Air Force still very powerful.

"You will understand how important these facts are in view of the peace negotiations or peace terms that are coming.

"The difficulty now with the land army is that there is no continuous front, and great army groups have been completely separated.

"Even so, on the Loire the army is holding. They are still partially holding the Maginot Line, but there has been a partial withdrawal of troops from that region of the French defences.—(Press Association War Special.)

ARMIES DIVIDED

BORDEAUX.

The French military spokesman announced that up to the late afternoon yesterday there had been no response to France's request for peace negotiations. The spokesman said there was now no continuous French front and the French have lost great quantities of artillery and other equipment.

Four French armies were divided by the German drive. The only army intact was the fourth on the Alps front, the Italians having failed to attack.—(Associated Press.)

MAGINOT LINE GOES ON FIGHTING

BERNE, Monday.

Despite Marshal Petain's announcement that France wishes to lay down her arms, the Maginot line began heavy shelling of the German positions at Baden at 3 p.m. The guns of the Siegfried line replied.

A later despatch from Verviers said that two hours after Marshal Petain's speech a fierce battle had begun on the plain behind Pontarlier, where large numbers of German motorised units were blocked by French infantry. The Germans were trying to force their way into Pontarlier after almost surrounding the town.—(Associated Press.)

MAGINOT LINE ALMOST EMPTY

BASLE, Monday.

The Germans who did pierce the Maginot line found the famous fortress virtually empty, it was reported here. Only thin first line troops were stated to have been left behind the strategically placed guns.

As the French troops retreated South they dynamited strategic villages to delay the advance of the Germans, who were reported to be short of pontoon bridge sections because of the swift progress of the campaign in Western France.—(Associated Press.)

MARSHAL PETAIN'S BROADCAST

"I GIVE MYSELF TO FRANCE"

Marshal Pétain, in his broadcast to the French people yesterday, said:—

"Frenchmen, at the appeal of the President, I have assumed from to-day on the direction of the French Government.

"Sure of the affection of our admirable Army, which is fighting with the heroism worthy of its noble military traditions against an enemy superior in numbers and in arms, certain that by its magnificent resistance it has fulfilled our duty to our Allies, certain of the support of ex-Service men, whom I am proud to have commanded; sure of the confidence of the entire nation, I give myself to France in order to mitigate its fortunes.

"In these sorrowful hours I think of the unhappy refugees, who, in utter distress, flee along the roads.

"I express to them my compassion and my solicitude. It is with broken heart that I tell you to-day that fighting must cease.

"I addressed myself last night to the enemy to ask him if he is prepared to seek with me, as between soldiers after an honourable fight, the means of putting an end to hostilities.

"May all French people rally round the Government over which I preside in these hours of hard trial.

"May they keep their anguish to themselves and obey nothing but their faith in the destiny of their country."—(P.A. War Special.)

FORCES RINGED

As 80-years-old Petain spoke, the German High Command claimed that the motorised forces of the Reich had reached the Swiss frontier, ringing the French forces in Alsace and Lorraine. There was no French communiqué. The last news from the French side was an official statement on Sunday night that the whole situation was extremely grave.

Marshal Petain took the Premiership over from M. Reynaud, whose resignation followed three Cabinet meetings on Sunday, the last at 10 p.m. The first hint of yesterday's announcement came in the communiqué that followed the first of Sunday's Cabinet meetings. This said that the Ministers had been informed of President Roosevelt's reply to M. Reynaud's last appeal.

MUNICH OR VERSAILLES

WHERE DICTATORS MAY MEET

Mussolini and Hitler will probably meet in Munich to-day, a reliable source in Rome stated last night, says the Associated Press. There was no official confirmation.

Sources close to the Spanish Foreign Ministry revealed in Madrid last night that Spain had been invited to participate in the peace negotiations.

Pending an armistice with France the German advance continued yesterday in full force, according to informed Nazi quarters in Berlin.

"ALL WILL BE WELL," SAYS BRITISH PREMIER

Sole Champions Now in Arms to Defend World's Cause

"All will be well."

"We shall defend our island and with the British Empire around us we shall fight on, unconquerable, until the curse of Hitler is lifted from the brows of men."

Mr. Winston Churchill, the British Premier, in a broadcast to Great Britain, the Empire and North America, last night made this striking declaration of British policy. In a one-minute speech he said:—

"The news from France is very bad and I grieve for the gallant French people who have fallen into this terrible misfortune.

"Nothing will alter our feelings towards them, or our faith that the genius of France will rise again.

"What has happened in France makes no difference to British faith and purpose.

"We have become the sole champions now in arms to defend the world cause.

"We shall do our best to be worthy of that high honour.

"We shall defend our island and with the British Empire around us we shall fight on, unconquerable, until the curse of Hitler is lifted from the brows of men.

"We are sure that in the end all will be well."

Mr. Churchill's broadcast was brief and dramatic. As is his habit in the House of Commons, he plunged straight into his message without any introductory remark. His voice was slow and clear and even, every word being articulated carefully. But he threw some emphasis into the declaration that "the genius of France will rise again," and his pace quickened a little as he delivered the telling passage that we should fight on "until the curse of Hitler is lifted from the brows of men."

How France Heard The Cease Fire

WORLD COMMENT ON CAPITULATION

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

NEW YORK, Monday.

HOW the French received the news of the cessation of their Army's resistance is described in a broadcast from Bordeaux by a representative of the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

"The people of Bordeaux who went to the cafés from their homes to listen to the broadcast of Marshal Petain are as quiet as any people I have ever seen," he said. "As yet there have been no demonstrations. They seem just to have accepted it. They seem, however, somewhat stunned by the suddenness. For Europe, for America, for all of you, the consequences of the defeat of the French Army, the existence of which kept the peace here in Europe for many years, will, indeed, be great as you all well know. . . . As far as I know at this moment fighting has not stopped. To-day the people of this town are much too tired and bewildered by all this to think much about to-morrow. The men around me in the studio and in the streets are very quiet, and as yet I have seen no tears, no manifestations. It is all too sudden, too big, too vast for them to comprehend just yet."

The Winnipeg Free Press, after paying a tribute to the magnificence of the French resistance, says that the new situation lays "new and terrifis responsibilities upon Canada, which alone of the Dominions is in a position to render immediate aid. All our man power, our resources and our wealth," it goes on, "will be placed unreservedly at the disposition of Britain, which now faces her supreme crisis. Canada will do this not only from motives of self preservation, but also from obligations of honour."

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

"The defeat of France has brought Nazidom to the very doorway of every American," Mr. Menzies, the Australian Prime Minister, declared to-day. "This will not end the war; on the contrary, it is the beginning of the most bitter and most crucial phase. As long as Britain is unconquered the world can be saved. That Britain can be conquered is unthinkable. France has fought magnificently, and she will be liberated. The free peoples of the world must get together and act promptly, and they will win eventually."

SWISS IMPRESSED

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

ZURICH, Monday.

France's defeat has caused an enormous impression in Switzerland, though it has been foreseen here for a few days. American "hesitation" is criticised in a leading article in the Basler Nachrichten, which even claims that this accelerated German action, which, it says, Hitler was anxious to carry out before American help for the Allies became effective. It is assumed that the Germans will move against Britain without the slightest delay for the same reason.

THE CHOICE BEFORE FRANCE

FOREIGN MINISTER'S ADMISSION

Speaking over the French radio last night M. Paul Baudoin, the new French Foreign Minister, praised the gallantry of the French Army, but added: "We were all insufficiently prepared for this war with its new methods." He stated that the French Army had fought with great discipline and resolve, but was up against an enemy superior in arms and men.

"The British Army, and the most powerful British Navy and Air Force had done magnificent work. The Poles, Norwegians, Dutch and Belgians had also fought gallantly, but unsuccessfully.

"Our Allies were unable to give us the aid which the French Army as the vanguard needed," the War Minister stated. "That is why Marshal Petain has asked the enemy to-day for negotiations to cease the fighting."

M. Baudoin said that the French Government had the choice of total sacrifice or saving what could be saved.—(Associated Press.)

MR. WINSTON CHURCHILL

"NO SHAMEFUL CONDITIONS"

FRENCH MINISTER ON TERMS FOR PEACE

NEW YORK, Monday.

M. Baudouin, the new French Foreign Minister, broadcasting from Bordeaux to-day, said:—

"We are ready to lay down our arms if we can get an honourable peace, but we are never ready to accept shameful conditions which would mean the end of spiritual freedom for our people.

"If we are given the choice between existence and honour, the French Army and the whole French people will know what to do."

Germany's crushing superiority in men and materials had not destroyed France's moral, and he praised the assistance given to France by Britain—by her air force, fleet, and soldiers.

He added:—"At no moment in history has the unity of the French people been greater. Our resolve and the honour of the French Army are unbroken . . . . In this grave hour we must emphasise that the French love of independence and her faith in the future continue."—(Reuter.)

M. Baudouin added: "Our country knows all the miseries of invasion. There is no Frenchman who has not had to bear sacrifices for her . . . . There is no Frenchman, however, who is not resolved that in this extreme of adversity France shall retain her dignity, her courage, and her faith in the future.

Late News on Page 6.

GOVERNMENT TO REMAIN

"It is because it is sure of this resolution, sure of this discipline, sure of the country's will for independence, that the Government remains amongst you to share the sufferings of our country, and to fulfil the cruel mission of asking the enemy on what conditions the carnage of our children may be stopped.

"That is why our Government, presided over by Marshal Petain, had to ask the enemy what his conditions would be. But it has not abandoned the struggle or laid down its arms.

"As Marshal Petain said this morning, the country is ready to seek in honour the means to put an end to hostilities.

"It is not ready, and it will never be ready, to accept dishonourable conditions nor to abandon the spiritual liberties of our people and betray the soul of France.

"The French people can save the spiritual values to which they are attached more than to life itself, but if they are obliged to choose between existence and honour their choice is made, and by their total sacrifice it is the soul of France and all that it represents to the world that they will have saved."

FRENCH ORDERS IN UNITED STATES

BRITAIN MAY TAKE THEM OVER

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

NEW YORK, Monday.

The British Government intends to take over "all war supplies contracted for in the United States by France" and to buy as much more as the United States can produce, it was stated in usually reliable Wall Street quarters to-day.

Over 1,600,000,000 dollars (about £400,000,000) worth of materials, mainly 'planes, have been ordered by the Anglo-French Purchasing Commission.

The Homeless Ones of Northern France

OLD AND YOUNG IN SAD PROCESSIONS

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER (ASSOCIATED PRESS BERLIN CORRESPONDENT).

With the German Armies in France.

THIS war has set in motion one of the most tragic migrations in history. There is nothing more pitiable than these endless streams of human misery that I have encountered again and again in Northern France and Belgium.

Death and suffering are bad enough for the men in uniform, but these hundreds of thousands of old men, women and children and infants, plodding along as the merciless sun beats down on their faces and backs, had no choice about their rôle in this war.

So fast do armies move to-day that these refugees could not even make a sensible selection of what to take with them. Nor did they know at the time of their fleeing that they would have to keep on the move constantly retreating from Belgium or Northern France, farther and farther South.

A VILLAGE INSTANCE

Near St. Pol, in Northern France, there is a little village through which the retreating French and advancing Germans swept without doing heavy local damage. The French evidently did not make a stand there and the Germans had no inclination to stop. Yet the entire population of the village, quite naturally, had fled.

En route to St. Pol I found notices like—"Grocer, Monsieur Chablis, fled with his family to Master's House, St. Pol."

"Monsieur and Madame Yvels and their children have gone to Rue de Marseilles, 21 St. Pol."

But when we reached St. Pol we realised that no one would find Monsieur or Madame Yvels in that town. It had been shelled It had been shelled in the meantime, and the civilian population had removed. Where Monsieur and Madame Yvels had gone to nobody knew.

IN UTTER TRAGEDY

In the headlong flight children became separated from parents, husbands from wives, brothers from sisters, in utter tragedy. Had I not travelled for days and days along main roads, leading from Cambrai to Arras I could not have believed my own eyes. Marching in one direction, and having the right of way, were German troops, with complete equipment, including heavy artillery, soup kitchens, supply lorries, reserves of horse, ambulances, soldiers on foot, on cycles, on motor cycles, and in armoured cars and tanks.

We, who travelled behind and alongside, were black with dust. And plodding along the dusty columns, the opposite direction, were hundreds of thousands of refugees, attempting to return home. They always had to move far to one side to allow the German troops to pass. When they reached some narrow emergency bridge they had to wait until many miles of German troop columns had passed. That sometimes meant hours, during which time the refugees could move neither back nor forward. Little help could be given them. The citizens already there were themselves dependent on the German Armies' food kitchens. Bread was given out at 10 a.m. each morning, at the local magistrates' offices. On more than one occasion I saw women standing in line, beginning at 6 a.m., because they said that by ten the queue was too long.

STRANGE FREIGHTS

Every form of transport was being used—except motor cars, for all the petrol in Northern France is for the sole use of the German Army. I saw one father and his two sons, however, hitched to their car in front, while the mother and two daughters pushed behind. Inside were a canary cage and a three-year-old boy, in addition to all the family trunks and suit-cases. One sturdy French boy pushed his aged mother in a wheel-barrow.

One woman, evidently of the leisured class, walked painfully, in high-heeled shoes, with costly furs around her neck. Her fashionable hat was bedraggled. She did not seem to mind the heat so much as her painful feet.

A tall, gaunt Catholic priest had a suit case slung over his back, and fastened there with a leather strap. He carried a prayer book in his right hand.

Two nuns pushed a cycle. In a wire basket fastened to the handlebars were two baby orphans.

FRANCO-BRITISH UNION WAS PROPOSED

"IN COMMON DEFENCE OF JUSTICE AND FREEDOM"

AN offer to conclude a Solemn Act of Union between France and Great Britain was made to France by the British Government on Sunday.

It was announced last night that the British Government wish it to be known that, with the object of assisting France and supporting her to the utmost in the hours of stress through which she was passing, as also in the hope of encouraging the French Government to continue their resistance, His Majesty's Government offered to conclude a Solemn Act of Union between the two countries.

The following draft declaration was accordingly communicated to the French Government by His Majesty's Ambassador on June 16th:—

"THE DECLARATION OF UNION.

"At this most fateful moment in the history of the modern world, the Government of the United Kingdom and the French Republic make this declaration of indissoluble union and unyielding resolution in their common defence of justice and freedom against subjection to a system which reduces mankind to a life of robots and slaves.

"The two Governments declare that France and Great Britain shall no longer be two, but one Franco-British Union.

"The Constitution of the Union will provide for joint organs of defence, foreign, financial and economic policies.

"Every citizen of France will enjoy immediately citizenship of Great Britain; every British subject will become a citizen of France.

"Both countries will share responsibility for the repair of the devastation of war wherever it occurs in their territories, and the resources of both shall be equally and as one applied to that purpose.

"During the war there shall be a single War Cabinet, and all the forces of Britain and France, whether on land, sea or in the air, will be placed under its direction. It will govern from wherever it best can.

"The two Parliaments will be formally associated.

"The nations of the British Empire are already forming new armies. France will keep her available forces in the field, on the sea and in the air.

"The Union appeals to the U.S. to fortify the economic resources of the Allies, and to bring her powerful material aid to the common cause.

"The Union will concentrate its whole energy against the power of the enemy, no matter where the battle may be. And thus we shall conquer."

A Correspondent's Description

"UNFIT FOR A FURTHER FIGHT"

FROM THE PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT WITH THE B.E.F.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.

DURING a tour of nearly 300 miles of the battle zone west of Rouen I found myself, accompanied by Mr. Edward Beattie, of the U.S., two photographers and some British officers, approaching the front. Our two cars drove along roads over which almost an entire French division was retiring to take up new positions.

The neighbourhood through which we were then passing seemed desolate and a trifle menacing by reason of the complete evacuation of all live stock, as well as human beings, and then we espied a solitary figure watching us from over a wall. Our car sped past him about fifty yards. Then a cyclist rounced a corner, and, jumping off, took up a position in the ditch, whence he opened fire upon us. Only then did we realise that we had fallen into the midst of a German cyclist patrol. We stopped our two cars immediately and began to turn them round. A British captain in the leading car leant out of the window and fired his revolver, and others of us reached for rifles inside the cars, though we had no time to fire them. Our drivers had us turned round in a thrice, and we made back along the road, the speedometer mounting rapidly to 80 miles per hour as we made good our escape, without any false heroics.

Here is an example of Fifth Column activity. A French corporal assured me that a 48 hours' armistice had been declared, and all his company were, therefore, withdrawing to the rear. We soon established that this was entirely untrue, but the Fifth Columnist had spread the canard so effectively that the corporal and his men believed it, and were retreating accordingly.

During the day's lengthy tour I witnessed tragic scenes along the roads. At a conservative estimate I must have passed 100,000 refugees streaming away from the German advance. Among them were an entire orphanage with their attendant nuns. Two young children who had tethered themselves to a handcart were pulling all their worldly possessions after them—entirely alone. A child of eighteen months, scarcely yet able to walk, was stumbling along after her mother, who was unable to carry her further on her back. There were countless farm wagons, some with children at one end and hens and ducks at the other.

TROOPS IN RETREAT

I saw almost an entire French division streaming down the road from Bernay to Alencon. Doubtless this had once been a fine division, and many of the men still marched in their units and bore themselves erect, but others seemed entirely dispirited. A long stream of horse artillery were an exception to this rule. They bore themselves magnificently, dragging their 75's behind business-like-looking horses and limbers.

But it must be stated that the bulk of this division were unfit for further sustained fighting. They were not armed sufficiently to stand the great weight of the Germans, armed with Tommy-guns, portable mortars, machine-guns, and plentifully aided by tanks and bombers. Their flesh and blood could not withstand the ordeal, as indeed no flesh and blood could in such circumstances. If such a French division is typical, then it is clear that Hitler's present success is entirely due to overwhelming weight of arms. I saw thousands of French troops in retreat to-day who, given enough armaments, could doubtless have held their own against the best troops in Germany; but they were demoralised by their inferiority in arms. In numbers they were probably a match for the enemy, but in mechanical fighting power they were totally inferior.

BRITAIN'S GROWING STRENGTH

FROM PRESS ASSOCIATION LOBBY CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday.

The Prime Minister will make perhaps the most momentous speech of the war to the House of Commons to-morrow.

It is unlikely that it will be followed by an immediate emergency debate, either in secret or in public. Events are moving too quickly for a Parliamentary discussion to be valuable at this stage. It would simply hinder Ministers in their vital, urgent work.

Mr. Churchill will deal with the swift sequence of the war in the last few fateful days, which have witnessed the fall of Paris, the resignation of M. Reynaud from the French Premiership, the coming of Marshal Petain, and his grave decision that the French Army must cease to fight.

Mr. Churchill's main theme will be the great task which Britain and her Empire now face with Germany so near her shores. Britain is now hourly increasing her fighting strength. As yet that strength in this war has never been fully brought to bear.

Adversity has added a thousandfold to British national resolution, and in solidarity of purpose it has never been so formidable. While with every conquest Germany has wider areas to defend, longer coastlines to guard, and accumulating millions of rebelling peoples to subdue, Britain's task is, at least, simplified and clear-cut.

NO ARMISTICE FOR FRANCE

SWISS REPORT

ROME, Monday

The special correspondent at Basle of the Official Stefani Italian Agency says that since midnight Marshal Petain has been in touch with Herr Hitler through the French military representatives who stayed behind in Paris. He confirms that military operations are continuing in France. The German High Command has not agreed to an armistice

He telegraphs: Either peace on conditions dictated by the victor or the continuation of the war up to Bordeaux.

"Nothing is known about the future peace terms. All that is known is that they will be dictated by the Fuehrer and the Duce, in common accord.—(Press Association War Special.)

PEACE TERMS THREAT

"At this hour it might be well to recall how Germany was treated by the victors when she found herself in the same position as that in which France is placed to-day," said an announcer on the German radio last night."—(Press Association War Special.)

AGENDA FOR DICTATORS' MEETING

The Swiss radio last night stated, quoting a report from Rome, that Mussolini and Hitler will consider the conditions of a cessation of hostilities for France, and decide on further war operations against Great Britain.—(Press Association War Special.)

EGYPT NOT AT WAR

Bombing "Incidents"

BRITISH TAKE 11 ITALIAN TANKS

THE Egyptian Premier, Aly Maher Pasha, commenting yesterday on the Italian air raid on El Sollum and other Egyptian border posts, declared that he considered them frontier incidents which could be settled by diplomatic means.

He said that similar incidents had taken place between Switzerland and the present belligerents, and during the Sino-Japanese war, when the British Ambassador, Sir Hughe Knatchbull Hugessen, was wounded. He emphasised that incidents of this kind did not necessitate a declaration of war. The Premier added: "According to a trustworthy Italian source the Government had only been informed of the Egyptian Parliament's definition of Egypt's attitude on June 15, and had, therefore, not had time to give the necessary instructions."

BRITISH TAKE 11 TANKS

FROM PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

SOMEWHERE IN THE EGYPTIAN WESTERN DESERT, Monday.

It is reliably reported that eleven Italian tanks, three guns, one senior army officer and one senior Air Force officer were captured by the British during yesterday's encounter south-east of Sollum. During the night the Italians moved forward twenty-eight tanks in the vicinity of the British, who sent out tanks which dispersed the Italians, with the above results.

ITALY'S PLANS

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

ROME, Monday.

The newspaper Avvenire commenting on to-day's Italian military communiqué says: "Italian action is developing in three great directions:—1. Reconnaissances of Italian troops in French territory. 2. The necessary preparation for the work of Italian liberation in Malta, Corsica and Tunis. 3. The first Italian blow at British domination in Egypt."

ALONE AGAINST EUROPE

SPANISH COMMENT

ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM.

MADRID, Monday.

Bitter comment on both Britain and France filled Madrid newspapers to-night.

The Informaciones said that the French appeal for an armistice meant that war had ended on the Continent. "For the first time in history Britain is alone against all Europe," the newspaper commented. "France played its card; history will say who is to blame . . . . but history does not limit itself to talking. History takes vengeance.

"The island on which the English live finds itself now alone, at war with a Europe won by a new order."

GAIETY THEATRE

"LABURNUM GROVE"

This is the second J. B. Priestley play to be presented at the Gaiety within a month; "When We Are Married" was honest-to-goodness comedy, "Laburnum Grove" is a comedy with an ingenious mystery about the whole business. It has been seen in Dublin once before and, deservedly, it has been made into a film. Last night's production was admirable, despite the fact that the tempo of the play was not quite right in the early stages.

Like most Priestley plays it offers scope for good character acting, and the casting at the Gaiety has been well done. George Radfern, the suburban householder, might (or might not) be the criminal he announces himself, and John Gill makes an excellent job of the part; his two big scenes—presiding at the supper table and his fencing conversation with the Detective Inspector (Norman Chidgey) are splendid, and Mr. Chidgey plays up to him well.

Evelyn Kerry has done some very good work at the Gaiety within recent weeks, and her protrayal of Mrs. Radfern will add to her reputation. Peggy O'Dare as Mrs. Baxley, and Frederick Victor as Bernard also deserve commendation for their character parts, and they have some very good scenes—ending up with their departure "in high dudgeon."

June Daunt, as the Radfern's daughter, who regards her "Dad" as too stolid and respectable, does a nice study of the part of the young girl rather over-much in love with a young man (James Garvey) who has designs on some of her father's cash.

Priestley likes to keep his audience guessing, and in "Laburnum Grove" he permits them to imagine that they have the whole thing nicely worked out—then he upsets their findings all over again. An amusing and entertaining play.

FIGHTER PATROLS SEE NO GERMAN 'PLANES

The British Air Ministry last night issued the following communiqué:—

"Owing to adverse weather conditions during the last twenty-four hours, air activity has again been greatly restricted.

"Aircraft of Coastal Command carried out routine patrols and convoy escorts as usual.

"Aircraft of Fighter Command also carried out patrols, but no enemy aircraft were encountered."

"FOR THE HONOUR OF THE FLAG"

BATTLE IN FRANCE CONTINUES

Last night's French communiqué states, according to the French Radio:—

"The battle continued to-day on the whole of the front, and particularly along the Middle Loire.

"There was violent fighting at Orleans and in the region of La Charite-sur-Loire.

"Enemy detachments which had succeeded in crossing the river have been contained on the laterial canal which runs parallel with the river.

"West of the Loire the enemy made further progress beyond Autun. In Burgundy he entered Dijon. In Franche-Comte he has reached the Doubs and pushed motorised units into the Jura. At all points of contact our troops are still fighting with the same bravery for the honour of the flag."—(P.A. War Special.)

"WAR EFFORT WILL BE STRENGTHENED"

CANADIAN PREMIER'S ASSURANCE

OTTAWA, Monday.

"I can say with confidence that the fate of France will strengthen rather than weaken Canada's determination to intensify her war effort," said Mr. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister, replying to a question in the House of Commons.

SENATOR SAYS "NO CHANGE OF TERRITORIES"

DEMANDS SPEEDY U.S. ACTION

WASHINGTON, Monday.

Senator Connally to-day demanded immediate action on legislation, stating that the United States would not acquiesce in the transfer of possession in the western hemisphere from one non-American Power to another non-American Power.

He said that it would be wise for the United States "to send some battleships to the Caribbean immediately, not to make war upon those possessions, but to see that war is not made on them."

"If it seems to be necessary, I would be willing for the United States, not for the purpose of conquest, but for our own protection, to seize any one of these territories that might be seized by conquest."

Senator Pittman also urged the immediate passage of the legislation in question.

"Things are changing very fast in Europe," he said. "Even to-day or to-morrow there may be some efforts to make transfers of territory."—(Reuter.)

FRENCH ARMY ROUTED

GERMAN CLAIM

The following is the text of yesterday's German communiqué:—

"To-day motorised troops have reached the Swiss frontier at Pontar Lier, south-east of Besancon. Thus the ring around the enemy's forces in Alsace and Lorraine has been closed. The French armies, having broken down, are pouring back wholesale south and south-west in great disintegration, closely pursued by our troops. In those places where separate forces succeeded in offering an ordered resistance they were driven back with heavy losses.

"Through the bold attack of a motorised detachment, led by the Divisional Commander himself, we succeeded in taking Orleans and the undamaged Bridgehead over the Loire. The Air Force continued its destructive action against the retreating enemy columns. Numerous bridges over the Loire were struck. Heavy columns, which had become stationary at these bridges, were attacked with bombs and machine-guns.

"German U-boats have sunk in the last few days over 100,000 tons of shipping. U-boat Commander Frauenheim announces the sinking of 41,500 tons of shipping, including the British steamer Wellington Star of 11,400 tons. First Lieutenant Andrea, commanding another U-boat, announces that he has destroyed 53,000 tons. Included in this total is the British auxiliary cruiser Carinthia of 22,300 tons. Another U-boat was also successful in sinking a British auxiliary cruiser of approximately 9,000 tons in the Moray Firth.

"Motorised troops operating in Burgundy and around Langres have gained ground in a southerly direction. Two aerodromes, on which there were 39 'planes ready to take off with bombs, were captured. The Swiss frontier was reached to the south-east of Besancon, and thus the ring around the French forces withdrawing from Alsace-Lorraine was closed.

"In the north of Lorraine our troops are approaching the town of St. Mihiel. Taking advantage of the breach of the Maginot Line south of Saarbruecken, our troops are advancing steadily towards the Rhine-Marne Canal, in spite of occasional desperate resistance by the enemy. Chateau Salins, Dieuze, and Saarburg have been captured. In addition, our attack on the west bank of the Upper Rhine continues successfully in the direction of the Vosges Mountains.

"In Alsace pursuit and dive-bomber formations, as well as anti-aircraft fire, had a decisive effect in the land operations. Fortified positions and earth-works were attacked with bombs of the heaviest calibre. The losses of the enemy in the air amounted altogether to eight 'planes, of which five were shot down in battle and three by anti-aircraft fire. Three of our own 'planes are missing."

News has been received by Mr. Carson, Wesley street, Enniskillen, that his son, Albert, aged 23, has been killed on active service in France.

RUSSIANS IN LATVIA

Estonia Also Occupied

TWO GOVERNMENTS RESIGN

FOLLOWING their occupation of Lithuania, Soviet troops are now occupying Latvia and Estonia. The first Russian forces crossed the borders of both countries early yesterday morning, and the latest messages say that Riga and Tallinn are occupitd.

According to despatches from the Latvian capital, Soviet warships have entered the port of Riga and Soviet armoured cars and tanks have taken up positions in the city itself.

The Governments of both Latvia and Estonia have resigned at the instance of the Soviet authorities, who demanded the appointment of Governments "capable of ensuring. and willing to ensure, the honest implementation" of the mutual assistance pacts concluded with the Soviet Union.

In Moscow the reason given for these demands is the fact that the military alliance between Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania has not been rescinded since the conclusion of the recent mutual assistance pacts with Russia. This military alliance, it is stated, is "directed against the U.S.S.R." and "is not only impermissible and unbearable, but very dangerous and menacing for the security of the frontiers of the U.S.S.R."

"PEOPLE'S GOVERNMENT"

Meanwhile, in Lithuania a "People's Government" friendly to the Soviet Union has been formed under M. Paleckis, a writer, according to a despatch from Kaunas. None of its members is a Communist, the despatch adds, but all are Left-Wing patriots. The former Lithuanian President, M. Smetona, who fled to Germany, is reported to have been interned at Konigsberg, according to the Stockholm paper Aftonbladet.

The newspaper adds that he will probably be deported to Lithuania. According to the same source, M Ulmanis, the President of Latvia and certain anti-Soviet Latvian Ministers cancelled their preparations to flee to Germany after hearing that M. Smetona had been interned.

Reports received in Stockholm indicate that the Russian occupation of the three Baltic countries has been carried out without incident. A portion of the populations, it is stated, welcomed the Russians.—Reuter.

WARSHIPS ARRIVE

In addition to the Soviet motorised troops which arrived in Tallinn this morning, the German News Agency adds, Soviet warships dropped anchor in the harbour during the day. The warships include the 23,256-ton battleship, October Revolution.

The number of persons registered at the employment exchanges on 8th June was 63,762, as compared with 81,985 in the previous week. Of those registered, 21,304 had unemployment insurance claims current; 12,183 had unemployment assistance applications current (with means), and 24,560 (without means); others were 5,715.

The decrease of 18,223 in the live register, it is officially explained, is due almost entirely to the operation of the Unemployment Assistance (Third Employment Period) Order, 1940.

THEATRE ROYAL

Mona Grey is well-known as an entertainer on the radio, as well as on the stage. She has won her popularity because she gives the audience always something new, and, unlike many other artistes who go in for her class of entertainment, she does not become tiring with impressions of film stars, who are seen sometimes too frequently on the films.

In her presentation at the Theatre Royal this week she has based her act on a visit which she paid to a local concert hall in Wales, and she gives her impressions of the artists who took part. She has not forgotten her child study.

The programme at the Royal this week also includes a young man, William Miller, who is a really good tenor, and whose performance was appreciated most. He does not impose too many "stage manners" on those who see him. He just sings. Denis Emons is what the publicity men call "a funster." He is funny as well as being original. Then there are the Royal Violettes, who appear in a novel setting arranged by Jimmy Campbell for his band and Mr. A. Gordon Spicer at the organ. The film, an exciting one, is "The Return of the Invisible Man."

STAFF OUTING

The staff of Messrs. Thomas Henshaw and Co., Ltd., Christchurch place, Dublin, held their outing on Saturday last, the venue being Brittas Bay, Co. Wicklow. Leaving Christchurch place in four luxury coaches (G.S.R.), and arriving in glorious sunshine, some of the party enjoyed sight-seeing, others bathing. After an enjoyable tea all returned to the dance hall, where a very enjoyable evening was spent.

PLEA FOR PARISH COUNCILS

MR. DE VALERA ON THEIR USE

SCHEME EXPLAINED BY REV. J. M. HAYES

TRIBUTES TO WORK OF MUINTIR NA TIRE

THE foundations of real national unity and harmony must be laid in every parish in Ireland, said the Rev. J. M. Hayes, in his address as chairman at a meeting held in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, last night, to inaugurate a national drive for Parish Councils.

Mr. de Valera, speaking on the motion that Muintir na Tire was worthy of support, dwelt on the importance of such committees as parish committees at the present time. They did not know, as days passed and hours passed, how much their ordinary organisations might be broken up. One type of organisation was available, both in peace and in war, and that was the parish organisation. If they were building up a system of local organisations in rural Ireland they would take the parish as the most natural unit. They had not had an opportunity of starting at the beginning in that particular way.

He had asked the Local Government Department to examine the question, but there were such difficulties as those of parishes running across county boundaries, and so on. While, from the point of view of administrative functioning, the parish did not fit in with their present system, there was no reason why, on the basis of self-reliance and co-operation, the parish should not at once be made the basis.

IN CASE OF WAR

Various things might happen during a war. People who might lose their employment could be looked after by parish committees. People might be coming into the area from other areas. The last safety for a people like theirs was in local organisations of that sort that would act voluntarily and on their own initiation, with body that might have been knocked out. That was apart from the State institutions they were trying to found in the way of such things as security patrols and the Red Cross. Their committees could also be used in time of peace to do many things that Father Hayes and his organisation were anxious to do. It was the ideal type of organisation, not waiting for directions from the top, but taking the initiative in its own area.

Those committees should be formed at once. If matters seemed to be getting worse those committees might finally take over the safeguarding of their little communities, and if each little community looked after itself the community as a whole would be pretty well looked after.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS

The Rev. J. M. Hayes, in the course of his introductory address, said that names and flags availed nothing if there were not, in a free people, the true spirit of citizenship. The parish was a very historic unit in Irish life. It had bonds that no other unit had. It had, above all, spiritual bonds. He believed that it would be a bad day for their Christian people when they would organise, or rather divide, their rural people on the material basis of production. If organisation was to be real and lasting it must give pride of place to spiritual values. The parish provided those, as well as catering for the social and economic life of the people.

Their method had been very simple and very Christian. Parish differed from parish, and, therefore, the formation of the guild and council was in accordance with the peculiar circumstances in each parish. Only a voluntary organisation could work in this manner. For the purpose of organisation, the parish was grouped, according to the vocation of its people, on broad lines. Each group selected five representatives to represent them on the council. Thus the council was truly vocational and representative. In most of the parishes in Cork, Limerick, Galway, Waterford and Tipperary Muintir na Tire had three groups in each parish—farmers, agricultural labourers, and those who were neither. The fifteen so selected formed the parochial council; all members formed the guild. The same number of members represented each group, no matter how many might be in a group. There was a purpose in this. Hitherto people had been organised to fight others; Muintir na Tire organised groups, not to fight, but to help each other. In some parishes there was just one group, in others two, and in Tipperary Parish there were five. This was sound common-sense. They took things as they found them, and dealt with realities.

While the parish guilds were autonomous, they were not isolated. In diocesan, provincial and national federations they learned their national relations, helped each other from experience and developed co-operation.

WORK OF THE GUILDS

What might be done by these guilds? No man could set a limit to their work for good. The Parochial Council would be the best possible guarantee of order and peace in a crisis. In case of a serious breakdown in the national administration they would jump into the breach and guarantee order. They would arrange food supplies for the cities. They would take charge of children and others who had to evacuate and find them homes. They would remain the sure guardians of their Christian and Irish heritage. They would be the unbroken defence force of their freedom.

Proposing that Muintir na Tire was worthy of the support of the people of Ireland, especially on account of its suitability for dealing with the problems before them, the very Rev. Dr. C. Lucey said that the organisation had faced up to the two great spiritual problems of their time—the need for co-operation and Christian harmony between all classes. A certain amount of Government interference was requisite, but they needed some initiative on their own part.

The Rev. G. W. Greening, editor of the Church of Ireland Gazette, seconded the motion. He said that Muintir na Tire provided for a practical application of the Lord's Prayer. They had not learned in Ireland sufficiently the grace of forgiveness of others, and the reason was, he thought, that they had been very separated. Muintir na Tire would help them to provide the family's daily bread, and, what was more important, the sharing of it.

General Mulcahy, T.D., congratulated Muintir na Tire on keeping the standard of Christianity flying. He said that while the dangers that lay around them might become heavier than they were able to bear they would have hope in their hearts as a result of the seed that Father Hayes was sowing.

Mr. W. Davin, T.D., said that ratepayers' representation would be reduced as a result of the County Management Bill, and that was a very good reason why in the future they should have Parish Councils for the purpose of maintaining active contact between the people of the parish and the people of the local authority and, if necessary, the people who represented them in the Parliament of the country.

PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION LIST

On the motion of the Right Rev. R. K. Hanna, D.D., seconded by Lord ffrench, it was decided to open a public subscription list.

On the motion of Mr. S. O'Farrell, seconded by the Right Rev. J. A. H. Irwin, D.Ph., the meeting welcomed the recent formation of the Dublin Auxiliary Guild of Muintir na Tire and appealed for increased membership.

Mr. Kevin J. Kenny, Mr. M. P. Linehan, Mr. P. O'Keefe, Mr. A. P. Dempsey, and the Rev. Father Fergus, O.F.M., also spoke.

AMBASSADORS' PROTEST

MUST LIVE IN VATICAN CITY

TREATY OF THE LATERAN INVOKED

THE British and French Ambassadors to the Holy See have protested against the refusal of the Italian Government to allow them to remain in residence outside the Vatican City.

The protest, it is stated, is based on the Treaty of the Lateran signed in 1929 between Cardinal Gasparri, then Papal Secretary of State, and Signor Mussolini, which provided that the Ambassadors of foreign countries, even when those countries were at war with Italy, had the right to live in the "Kingdom of Italy," and to have the liberty of correspondence with their home countries. When Italy declared war the Ambassadors of France and Britain had to accept the offer of His Holiness the Pope and take up residence inside the Vatican City, as permission to remain outside was refused. It was thus claimed that the Duce had broken the Treaty of the Lateran.

TERMS OF TREATY

Article 12 of this Treaty, which was signed on February 11, 1929, states:—"The Italian State recognises the right of the Holy See to legations active and passive according to the general rules of International law. The representatives of foreign Governments to the Holy See shall continue to enjoy in the Kingdom of Italy all the prerogatives of immunity belonging to diplomatic agents according to International Law, and their seats shall continue to remain in Italian territory and enjoy the immunity due to them by International Law, even when these States have no diplomatic relations with Italy. Italy will in every case leave the correspondence of all States free, comprising the belligerents, to the Holy See and vice versa and preserve the free access of the bishops of the whole world to the Apostolic See. The high contracting parties agree to establish normal diplomatic relations by means of an Italian Ambassador accredited to the Holy See and a Pontifical Nuncio to Italy, who shall be the Dean of the Diplomatic Corps in accordance with the customary right recognised by the Congress of Vienna at the Act of June 9, 1815. . . The diplomats to the Holy See and the couriers sent in the name of the Supreme Pontiff shall enjoy in the territory of the Kingdom, even in time of war, the same consideration as is due to the diplomats and couriers of the Continent of other foreign Governments according to the norm of international law.

An official of the Papal Nunciature in Dublin yesterday said that he had no information regarding the matter, except that the Holy See had made efforts in the event of war involving Italy to make available accommodation in the Vatican for the Ambassadors of belligerent Powers. He could not express any opinion as to the operation of the Treaty of the Lateran under war conditions.

The Italian Legation in Dublin had no statement to make.

DAMAGED STEAMER TOWED TO DUBLIN

The s.s. Nagui, belonging to the Limerick Steamship Company, which ran aground on the South coast some weeks ago, was taken off yesterday by the company's s.s. Kyle Clair, and towed to Dublin. The Nagui was badly damaged when she ran aground in a storm; both her masts were broken and her hull pierced.

The two ships arrived in Dublin early this morning, and the Nagui will go into dry dock for repairs.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

Dearer Farm Produce.—The Agricultural Price Index Number for April, 1940, was 145.3, compared with 145.4 in March, 1940, and 114.5 in April, 1939. Farm products that sold for £5 14s. 6d. last year were worth £7 5s. 3d. this year.

Condolence.—Balrothery Board of Assistance yesterday passed a vote of condolence with Mr. D. McCarthy, Breigh, Portmarnock, on the death by drowning at Portmarnock last week of his son, Sean, and his nephew, James Wynn.

Returned for Trial.—In the Dublin District Court, William Finlay (25), of Watling street, and Vincent Hutchinson (26), of Summerhill, Dublin, were returned for trial, charged with stealing a sum of money from a woman's handbag in a Parnell square dance hall.

Woman Sentenced.—In the Dublin District Court, before Justice Little, Mary McCabe, a young married woman, of Long lane, off Dorset street, Dublin, was sentenced to fourteen days' imprisonment for receiving a nurse child without giving the statutory notice to the Dublin Board of Assistance. Mr. Denis Greene appeared for the Board of Assistance.

* * *

Cauliflowers Stolen.—At Howth District Court yesterday Matthew Segrave, no fixed abode, was charged with stealing eighteen cauliflowers from the lands of Mr. Blair-White, Belcamp. The accused man admitted the offence, and said that he sold some of the cauliflowers for 6d. each and ate the rest. A fine of 2s. was imposed, with 10s. compensation.

Appeal Allowed.—In the Belfast Court of Appeal yesterday, before the Lord Chief Justice, Lord Justice Babington, the Lord Justice Murphy, Robert Best, Ballyronan, Magherafelt, Co. Londonderry, sought to set aside the judgment of Mr. Justice Megaw dismissing his action against William A. McKay, of the same place, for the return of £500 under a partnership deed. The plaintiff had claimed the return of £500 to him by defendant in connection with a partnership in a poultry farm. The Court allowed the appeal, declaring that plaintiff was entitled to a return of the £500.

Alleged Arson.—At a special court in Armagh, before Mr J. C. Austin, R.M., James Trainor, Irish street, Armagh, who had been admitted to bail on remand, was charged with unlawfully setting fire to Armagh Catholic Parochial Hall on March 11 last. Doctors Woods and Deane deposed to dressing the accused man's burns, which were very severe. Sergeant Carton deposed that on March 12 he went with Constable Foster to the scene of the burning and saw the clothes (produced) picked up by Constable Foster. James Willis, official, Labour Exchange, Armagh, deposed that the health insurance card produced, with the name on it, James Trainor, was the accused's (James Trainor) card. It was produced to witness once a week by the accused man for stamping, and was last produced on Wednesday, March 6. The accused man was returned for trial to the next assizes at Armagh and admitted to renewed bail, himself in £500 and two sureties of £250 each.

PRACTICAL COURSES IN FARMING

The Department of Agriculture directs the attention of farmers and their sons to the courses in practical agriculture at the State Agricultural Schools at Athenry, Ballyhaise, and Clonakilty. Places at these residential schools are afforded at very low fees, and application should be made to the Department of Agriculture at once for particulars of admission to the 1940-1941 session.

The course of training at these schools is a valuable preparation for a farming career. No young man who wishes to succeed as a farmer should fail to obtain particulars.

Rachel 1

On the most wonderful day in your life—you will look your loveliest, of course you will. Everything must be in perfect taste. You will be the cynosure of all eyes. How nice it will be to know that your face powder is non-detectable, a small thing, though important on ordinary occasions. On the occasion wouldn't it be awful if it wasn't. Well, thank goodness for Pond's six shades, each matching to perfection the six different types of skin.

Rachel 1. A pale clear tint for those lovely creamy skins ordinarily so difficult to match, but the colourscope gave Pond's the secret. By the way, if Rachel 1 is your powder you may find Peach suitable for night-time or artificial lighting.

Remember Pond's won't cause pore enlargement or skin-clog because it is far, far too fine. Pond's Powder is available in Peach, Apricot, Natural, Rachel 1, Rachel II and Dark Brunette (Sun-tan).

LATE NEWS

"NOT A SURRENDER," SAYS BERLIN

ROME OPINION ON FRENCH POSITION

ROME, Monday.

It is pointed out in Berlin circles that the request addressed to the German Government by Marshal Petain is "only a demand for information and not a surrender," according to a dispatch from the German capital to the official Stefani Agency.

"The note was sent by the ordinary diplomatic channels of the Powers concerned with the interests of the belligerents. Seeing that it is not a question of surrender, military operations continue. However, it is pointed out in Berlin that French detachments have begun to surrender on their own account.

"No forecast is given of the contents of the German reply. It is, nevertheless, certain that the Duce and the Fuehrer will examine in detail the fresh situation created in the military and political domain.

"It is added in Berlin that France voluntarily chose her destiny, when, at the orders of Great Britain, she took arms against the vital interests of the German Reich."

AIR RAID ON MALTA

MALTA, Monday.

Five enemy bombers, supported by two fighters, dropped several bombs on Malta today. There were no casualties. The 'planes fled, showing definite signs of damage, after being attacked by R.A.F. fighters.

BRITISH TAKE 600 PRISONERS

CAIRO, Monday.

Authoritative reports reaching Cairo tonight from the Libyan border stated that more than 600 prisoners were taken by the British, including 200 Italians, one officer of high rank, twelve tanks and seven field guns.

The R.A.F.'s repeated raids on Italian bases were stated to have destroyed at least 100 'planes.—(Associated Press.)

NO TRANSFERS

WASHINGTON, Monday.

The Senate to-night approved legislation to refuse recognition to the transfer of possessions in the Western Hemisphere between non-American nations.—(Associated Press.)

FRANCE AWAITING GERMAN REPLY

The announcer on the French wireless stated late last night that Germany's reply to Marshal Petain's approach had not yet arrived. France would await it with patience and calmness, he said.

COMPIEGNE AS HITLER'S CHOICE?

NEW YORK, Monday.

A Franco-German armistice may be signed at Compiegne, where the armistice of 1918 was signed, according to representatives of the Columbia Broadcasting System in Berlin.—(Press Association War Special.)

NATION'S BACKBONE NOT BROKEN

"UNPLEASANT SURPRISE" FOR GERMANS?

NEW YORK, Monday.

In a report from Bordeaux the correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting System hinted that the Germans may get an "unpleasant surprise" if they push the French too far.

"The backbone of the nation is not yet broken," he said. "The physical and nervous exhaustion we all feel here is fanning a kind of reckless courage among the French people—people so tired that it seems almost easier to die than to go on living. This is the spirit in which the French Army fought on to-day, and is still fighting tonight, really fighting and not just going through military motions while waiting the order to cease fire."

CERTIFICATES FOR DRIVERS

WORK OF SAFETY FIRST ASSOCIATION

About 350 safe-driving certificates were awarded last night to paid drivers by the Safety First Association of Ireland as the result of the 1939 competition.

Mr. William A. Podesta, hon. secretary of the Association, said that these safe-driving competitions were instituted in 1937, and the Association proposed not only to continue, but to intensify, its activities. Its activities were, for the most part, of an educational character, but the safety driving competition was something practical to reduce road accident. The Association appealed to all owners of transport in the country to enrol their drivers in this national competition. He explained that five consecutive certificates would entitle drivers to a silver medal, and ten to a gold medal.

Mr. David Coyle, Chairman of the Association, presided, and presented the certificates. He said that every year their statistics of accidents showed greater casualties than occurred during the civil war here. Last December in England road casualties were actually greater than war casualties at that time. He said that future main roads would bear the same relation to present main roads that their main roads to-day did to a country boreen. The present expenditure of public money on roads should express a broader interpretation of the needs of our age.

ACID STOMACH

Where's that sunny smile, that merry whistle, that schoolboy appetite, this morning? Why is he so glum and won't touch his breakfast?

The answer is ACID STOMACH!

Excess acid sours the stomach and upsets the system . . . naturally you feel out-of-sorts and the thought of food is nauseating. Take a little 'Milk of Magnesia' or two 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets, and that sick, sour feeling disappears almost instantly. For 'Milk of Magnesia,' promptly neutralizes the excess acid responsible for the upset. The stomach is soothed and strengthened, appetite returns and digestion proceeds in comfort. Flatulence, heartburn, nausea, indigestion and all stomach troubles due to excess acidity vanish in a marvellous manner on taking 'Milk of Magnesia.' It is the antacid most acceptable to the stomach and the one most extensively prescribed by doctors for patients of all ages. Keep it in readiness as a quick, safe and pleasant corrective for an acid stomach.

Obtainable everywhere.

'Milk of Magnesia' 1/3 and 2/6 (Treble Size)
Also 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets 6d., 1/-, 2/- and 3/6.

'MILK OF MAGNESIA'

'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips' preparation of Magnesia.

COMIC PRINCE NAPPED

Apellity Selected for the Shrewsbury Handicap

AFRICAN SISTER, who carries top-weight in the Shrewsbury Handicap, the principal item at Wolverhampton's concluding stage, is a course specialist. The only two races she won last season under Jockey Club Rules were at Wolverhampton. She has not run this season, but will, no doubt, be forward in condition.

Gingko and Apollonium are handicapped exactly the same as when third and fourth to Chiliarch at Bath, when a short head separated the pair. Both had won previously, and of the pair I prefer Apollonium, though he has nothing in hand of Apellity, who finished ahead of him in the race won by Poetic Licence at Lewes. With the allowance claimed Apellity should require a lot of beating. The lightly-weighted Sitara is a three-year-old in a progressive stage that had been second twice prior to Thirsk success.

Whilst respecting the claims of African Sister, I doubt her ability to concede the weight to Sitara and who runs for the Bradford Handicap, has not been out previously this season, but had creditable form in high-class two-year-old company last year. He was fourth to Moradabad at Goodwood, close third to Illuminate and Cameron at Newmarket, and ran Blitz to a length and a half in the Gatwick Foal Plate. Obviously, the colt has merit, and, if he stays a mile, should be a danger to the best.

APELLITY,

David Dick's six-year-old being the choice.

BLANTYRE,

Easily as the two-year-old Humidity won at Lewes, the filly cannot be taken to defeat older horses in the Walsall Maiden Stakes. Jeepers Creepers has been second in each of his two races in plating company.

COMIC PRINCE

started favourite when beaten two short heads by English Archer and Clarapple at Windsor, and afterwards at Newmarket, when a creditable fourth to Quarteroon. Beatty's colt may find this course easier, and is taken to recover his losses.

The Dudley Plate concerns moderate animals, and is left to who won at Newmarket.

Fourth to Mabrouka at Newmarket makes out Machree to be better than a "plater," and S. Darling's filly should win the Oxley Selling Plate, whilst I expect to take the Penn Selling Handicap.

MYTHICAL MAID

DERBY WINNER'S BREEDING

Meritorious Performance in the Classic Races: Prospects for Big Events at the Week-End

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday Night.

THE New Derby winner, Pont L'Eveque, holds an engagement in the Ribblesdale Stakes on Friday at Newmarket, when a two-day meeting begins in lieu of Ascot. The New Oaks winner, Godiva, has an engagement in the Queen Elizabeth Stakes on the same afternoon, but it is not the intention of their owners to start either.

It is a general opinion that this colt and this filly are well up to high-class standard and are thoroughly representative thoroughbreds who would hold their own in most seasons. It is not often that we see a colt do what Pont L'Eveque did in a classic race over more than a mile, and that is make virtually all the running, for no great notice may be taken of the runaway Romulus, who was leading him for a time.

There are two performances with which it can bear comparison: that of Spearmint in the Grand Pri de Paris and of Coronach in the St. Leger. There is not much doubt that had there been another quarter of a mile, or even more, to go last Wednesday Pont L'Eveque would have been galloping further and further away from them.

A Notable Performance

Then again the performance of Godiva in the Oaks was a notable one, even though she had much less to beat than had the colt. When they had gone half a mile she seemed to be an almost illimitable distance behind the leaders, and then when she began to improve she came like a whirlwind. Seldom has anyone seen classic fillies, or even so-called classic fillies, made to look such commoners compared with Hyperion's daughter.

Some people are inclined to assume that she is as good as Pont L'Eveque and may even be the best of the season, but there is no reliable means of demonstrating this unless in the event of there being a substitute race for the St. Leger, and then it is open to question whether she will stay it out as long as the colt.

Pont L'Eveque's Lineage

It has to be put on record that Pont L'Eveque is the first colt directly descending from Son-in-Law to win a classic race, and only the second classic winner in all his stirp, the other being Straitlace, whose daughter, Silverlace II., finished second to Godiva in the New Oaks. Son-in-Law was actually racing before the last war, and as a three-year-old won the Goodwood Cup in 1914, and Pont L'Eveque goes back to him through Barneveldt and Signorinetta's son, The Winter King. The latter was serving for a time in France after getting Barneveldt, and then was sent to Italy, where he has had considerable success as a sire.

In the lower part of his pedigree, Pont L'Eveque could not have a more distinguished lineage, for his grand-dam, Poet's Star, was by Chaucer out of Lady Cynosure, by Cyllene out of Maid Marian, and Maid Marian was the dam of Polymelus and was a half-sister to La Fleche and Memoir. She was a daughter of Hampton, and thus we have the great son of Lord Clifden in the bottom line of the pedigree of Pont L'Eveque as well as in the top line through Son-in-Law.

For Sale as Sire

It is understood that his owner would not be indisposed to part with Pont L'Eveque in the course of time for a sire were a suitable offer forthcoming. The United States would seem the most likely market for him, but in the past they have not cared much about the Son-in-Law blood across the Atlantic, because the Son-in-Laws have taken so long to find their best form. There has been, however, in the last few years an outcry in the States against breeding so much for speed, and a number of sires of stout staying blood have been bought from France with the idea of strengthening their present lines.

Gold Cup Candidates

It will seem odd having the Royal Hunt Cup run on a Saturday afternoon at Newmarket, and the Gold Cup and the Coventry Stakes run the day before. A fair field should be seen for the Gold Cup, though we do not appear to have really distinguished four and five-year-olds just now. Flyon won it easily last year, and he has every chance to do so again, though he was beaten last week under a very heavy weight. Good horse as he may be, he is not good enough to win handicaps under 9st. 12lb. when there is useful opposition, for he is not a White Knight.

Quick Ray and Atout Maitre are good four-year-olds that are likely to take part, but the disappointing Fox Cub, second in the Derby last year, has been exported. It is a little doubtful whether Casanova will get the distance, and the pair trained by Captain Bell—Finis and Bellman—hardly seem to be class enough. At the present time there does not seem a good reason for opposing Flyon, for he is a genuine stayer who can stand a strongly-run race.

No one will think seriously of opposing the Beckhampton best in the Coventry Stakes, and as Morogoro had a race last week, the best should be the Salisbury winner, Owen Tudor. Far more competitive may be the race for the Queen Mary Stakes, which is confined to fillies, for here Booklet, Gold Lily, and the filly by Umidwar out of Rosetta have all been left in. Should all three be started, there will be strong partisanship.

The Royal Hunt Cup

It is doubtful whether there will be much ante-post betting on the Royal Hunt Cup, which is usually one of the big gambling handicaps of the year, the biggest, possibly, with the exception of the Cambridgeshire, among the shorter events. One that is likely to be fancied is High Peru, while the Lincolnshire winner, Quartier-Maitre, is by no means out of it, and others whose chances can be liked are the better of Captain Boyd-Rochfort's pair, Ombro and Diadoque; the consistent His Highness, and the French colt, Romeo II., who came from France and made the running to the Bushes in the 2,000 Guineas won by Blue Peter, after which he finished fourth, running on again. He seems better class than some of those who are round him in the handicap.

Selections

To-morrow's racing at Wolverhampton will be of much the same class as it has been to-day, and the most attractive chance of any horse engaged seems to be that of COMIC PRINCE, in the Walsall Maiden Stakes. Gold and Gay may be the next best.

COGNIZANT, in the Dudley Maiden Plate, may be another winner for Donoghue, while SHIRLEY LAD, or, alternatively, SITARA, may win the Shrewsbury Handicap.

There is an interesting paragraph in the report of the Racecourse Betting Control Board, which states that experience since operations were resumed after the closing down at the outbreak of the war has justified the belief that the Totalisator may be able to pay its way during war time.

ATHLETICS

THE HERMES CLUB

At the annual general meeting, held in the College Park on Wednesday last, all the officers were re-elected, as follows:—President, Dr. E. J. M. Watson; Chairman, R. A. French, Esq., LL.B.; Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer, D. H. McNeill. Committee—The above, with the Rev. R. N. Coote, L. N. Horan, P. L. Rice.

The Hon. Secretary, in his report, said that, in spite of the international situation, which made it impossible for them to carry out their first aim—that of securing representative competition—the club was in a sound position. He also said that he wished to thank the Press for the warm welcome which they had given the club, and for the way they had made the objects of the club known to the general public.

GOLF

IRISH OPEN AMATEUR CANCELLED

First Round Matches in "Close" at Dollymount

(BY OUR GOLF CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Irish Close Amateur Championship, which began at Dollymount yesterday, will be the only golf championship held in the home countries this year, except the Irish Professional, which is in the list for the Little Island Club, Cork. That sums up what was officially conveyed to me yesterday by Mr. Alan Kidd, who informed me that at a meeting of the Standing Committee of the Central Council last Friday the decision was come to to cancel the Irish Open Amateur for this year.

It cannot be said that the announcement caused the least surprise in view of the meagre entry received for the Close from the members of the clubs in the "South," but one well-known southern golfer remarked that had the Union taken the decision before the entries closed for the native event the response for the latter would likely have been double what it was. Be that as it may, the fact remains that we are now watching the last of the Union's championships until happier times return.

The absence of competitors from Northern Ireland this week had been commented on freely, but to avoid any misunderstanding I may mention that the championship was held at the request of the representatives of the Ulster Branch, who, when the suggestion was put forward by Leinster that the championships should be abandoned for the year, expressed the view that there was no reason why the Close should not be held in Dublin—a very sporting gesture, indeed, seeing that at the time it was realised that it would not be possible for the Northern Ireland players to enter for it. Another bit of official information is to the effect that the Munster Branch has ordered the final of the Munster section of the Irish Senior Cup to be played off between Cork and Lahinch, and that the all-Ireland finals be played in Dublin.

DEADLY DULL AFFAIR

In my experience of Irish championships I cannot recall one that was so deadly dull as this one threatens to be; not even when there was a danger of the Close disappearing from the list through lack of support. There was but a mere handful of spectators at Dollymount, and the bulk of them went round with James Bruen and T. J. Lawlor, of County Kildare. Bruen, as expected, won, the margin being five and four. The Kildare man, who is physically head and shoulders over Bruen, played right well in what was for him a losing battle after he had won the first two holes. It was not the real Bruen that we saw, but, although the first two holes cost him eleven strokes—a 5 and a 6—he went to the turn in thirty-nine for a lead of two holes. He got Lawlor on the run at the fifth, which he won, and then followed three other wins in succession. The tenth is a bogey four, and Bruen had it in three strokes; the eleventh is a five, and he was down in four, and another typical Bruen hole was the fourteenth. There the match finished. He took the iron from the tee, slammed it down the middle, was hole high with the mashie-niblick and two putts ended it.

Perhaps, the best match of the fourteen was that in which John M'Loughlin was beaten by Charles Robertson at the nineteenth. At one stage—the 7th—the Royal Dublin man was leading by two holes. At the turn, however, his lead had completely vanished; but he won the eleventh and twelfth to regain it, Robertson having forged ahead at the tenth. The vital hole was the eighteenth. There M'Loughlin was hole high with his second, Robertson being over the green on the right in the like. M'Loughlin had a short putt for four, and the match, but in going for his four Robertson just missed, and laid a dead stymie. They went on to the nineteenth, where Robertson was down in four and through to the second round.

It was a fine match between the holder, Gerry Owens and R. M'Conkey, to the sixteenth, where the champion, with a three won. A 2 at the ninth left Owens three up, but M'Conkey fought hard all the way. He won the eleventh, to reduce the lead to two by holing off Owens's ball from the edge of the green; but wide of the sixteenth, with Owens on the green from the tee, he lost his chance there, his pitch running yards beyond the hole on the fast green.

A. W. Briscoe, Cecil Ewing, William O'Sullivan, and John Burke—all internationalists—are in the second round. From now on it should be an interesting championship; but really I do not think anyone will be sorry when it is over.

NEWMARKET HINTS

At Wolverhampton to-day,

LYNDALE

is preferred to Machree in the Oxley Selling Plate.

Sagatas and Alrabia are expected to be prominent in the Walsall Maiden Stakes, but I prefer to rely on whose previous form is a recommendation for this class of event.

COMIC PRINCE,

SITARA

is fancied for the Shrewsbury Handicap.

WISHWELL

should win the Dudley Plate.

CRICKET

TO-DAY'S FIXTURE

Senior League—Leinster v. Dublin University, Rathmines, 6.0.

LAWN TENNIS

EAST OF IRELAND CHAMPIONSHIPS

HOMAN GIVES FANNIN A CLOSE MATCH

Following Saturday's wash-out, the weather was perfect for the East of Ireland Championships at the Lansdowne Club yesterday, and the full programme of open and handicap events was carried through. None of the leading men were defeated in the opening round of the singles, but A. H. Archer, number five on the Lansdowne team, took the second set from P. Read, the hard court champion. Archer kept a good length, especially on his forehand, in the second set, and ran well, saving a match-point before levelling scores, but Read was far too accurate from the base line in the final set.

A notable victory in the first round of the women's singles was that of Miss J. Scott, also a member of the Lansdowne Club, over Miss P. Goodbody. The latter has had little competitive play this season, and she was unfortunate in meeting such an accurate opponent in her first match. Miss Scott's sliced drives were hitting the side lines time after time and with these she was able to counter her opponent's volleying attack.

The Glenageary player, T. F. Homan, put up a remarkable fight against A. E. Fannin. His steady, consistent defence so worried his international opponent that he won the first set, and made Fannin fight very hard indeed to win the match.

Results:—

MEN'S SINGLES CHAMPIONSHIP—First Round.

BOXING

RANKIN READY TO MEET TARLETON FOR TITLE

Jackie Rankin's manager has received a letter from the British Boxing Board of Control agreeing to recognise a match between Rankin and Nel Tarleton, holder, for the British and Empire feather-weight titles. Rankin, who is in the Royal Air Force, is willing to have £100 as a side-stake on the result of the fight.

COUNTY ANTRIM MAN SENTENCED

REFUSAL TO GIVE INFORMATION

Sentence of twelve months' imprisonment, with hard labour, was imposed on Felix McCloskey, Toomebridge, County Antrim, at Enniskillen Petty Sessions yesterday.

Defendant, who had been found on an Enniskillen street after midnight following the recent explosion, appeared in custody charged with refusal to supply to the police reasonable information in his possession, with attempting to mislead a police officer, and with refusing to answer to the best of his ability certain questions addressed by Head Constable Thornton.

Head Constable Thornton said that the accused man stated that his name was "John Daly." In his possession was a pocket-book with the entry twice noted: "Tuesday, 14th, 6 o'clock a.m." There was a slip of paper in his possession with four names, including that of Sean Russell. The entry mentioned corresponded to the times at which four explosions took place in Belfast.

Major Dickie said that they were convicting on the charge of refusing to supply reasonable information. The Court imposed a sentence of twelve months' imprisonment, with hard labour, and ordered defendant at the end of that time to enter into bail of £20, with two £10 sureties, to be of good behaviour for two years, or, in default, a further six months in jail.

WOLFE TONE

LECTURE BY MR. A. LYNN

In a lecture on Wolfe Tone, given at 9 Parnell square, Dublin, last night, Mr. Alex Lynn, barrister-at-law, said that in the poem "Tone's Grave" Thomas Davis had a line—"His name seldom named, and his virtues unknown." It seemed strange to-day to know that the name of Tone seldom had been mentioned even at the rise of the Young Ireland movement, but such seemed to have been the case. Now that his name was publicly mentioned they found an attempt in British propaganda to slander and belittle the man whom the British could not purchase, and could not break. It was an injustice to the memory of Tone to fasten on one aspect of his life or one simple portion of his teaching and ignore every other aspect, which might be far more important.

Mrs. Buckley presided.

Mr. David Gordon, a new solicitor, was yesterday introduced by Mr. W. G. Wilson to Mr. E. J. McKean, K.C., the Deputy Recorder, at the Belfast Recorder's Court.

The Prime Minister of Australia, Mr. Menzies, proposes to introduce a bill virtually conscripting the wealth and man-power in Parliament on Thursday.

RECORD OF PROGRESS

WORK OF CORK ST. HOSPITAL

THE PROBLEM OF DIPHTHERIA

THE report presented at the one hundred and thirty-seventh annual meeting of the House of Recovery and Fever Hospital, and the third annual meeting of the Dublin Hospital Fever Board, held at Cork street, Dublin, yesterday, stated that the number of admissions to the hospital amounted to 2,514, with an average bed occupancy of 248, a decrease of eight over the previous year.

The Board regretted that they were still without the services of a lady almoner. Negotiations with the Department still were in progress.

Considerable trouble was experienced in the filling of certain nursing and administrative posts, notably that of Sister Tutor, through the procedure of recommendation by the Local Appointments Commission. The difficulties were brought to the notice of the Minister, and the Board had noted with great satisfaction that the Government had promoted a measure which was now on the point of becoming law exempting certain posts from this procedure.

LOW DEATH-RATE

Dr. C. J. McSweeney, medical superintendent, in his report for 1939, said that the number of patients treated was the highest in any year since the undersirable practice of accommodating more than one child in a bed was abandoned in 1934. The gross death rate was the lowest recorded in the long history of the hospital.

Under the new treatment of cerebro-spinal fever the death rate fell to 20 per cent. The improvement was continuing.

The mortality rate for broncho-pneumonia, another highly fatal disease in young children, also showed a welcome drop, from 34 per cent in 1938, 43 per cent in 1937, to 9 in 1939.

For the first time in 137 years a whole year had gone by without a death from erysipelas, though 73 cases were treated in the wards.

The problem of Graves' diphtheria continued to receive their closest attention, and during the year the hospital and Dr. R. A. G. O'Meara (aided by a whole-time grant from the Medical Research Council of Ireland) had continued to work in the closest collaboration.

"We have in Dublin," said Dr. McSweeney, "the most virulent type of diphtheria in Europe, and, in these circumstances, every child who complains of a sore throat should be seen within a few hours by a medical practitioner. If this were done a great many tragedies would be avoided."

Proposing the adoption of the reports, Senator Dr. R. J. Rowlette said that though there had been changes in their hospital's constitution there had not been any change in the continuity of family interests, which had been so potent a factor in making that hospital so important.

TO CONQUER TYPHOID

Seconding the motion, Mr. Kingsmill Moore said that Cork Street was the first hospital in Europe, the second in the world, to use the Felix serum, which had gone far to conquer typhoid. It was the first to employ on a big scale the Bragg Paul Pulsator, and in the hospital was discovered and introduced the modern treatment of cerebro-spinal meningitis, which had reduced the death rate to one-third of what it had been. That treatment was now adopted throughout the world. Their treatment of bronchial-pneumonia by combined serum, chemo-therapy and oxygen tent, had reduced the mortality rate of that illness by 300 per cent.

In the present report there was a hint of an even greater discovery for the treatment of Graves diphtheria, that dreadful form of the disease so prevalent in Dublin. If their hopes were fulfilled the crown would have been placed on the faith and labours of those old citizens of Dublin who erected this hospital 135 years ago and named it so gloriously, "The House of Recovery."

Supporting the motion, Mrs. M. Cosgrave asked how could they account for the prevalence of diphtheria in view of the Corporation's scheme of immunisation.

Dr. McSweeney said that the Corporation's immunisation scheme was not being practised in the city to anything like the extent that would have the slightest effect, because of the attitude of parents. He was afraid that Dublin was lackadaisical and apathetic so far as the prevention of disease was concerned.

The reports were carried.

Mr. M. O Foghludha, chairman, presided, and there were also present Senator D. Healy, Mrs. M. J. McKean, Mrs. K. Nix, A. Pearson, Mrs. T. C. Kingsmill Moore, W. R. Wigham, Mrs. Pim, Dr. R. A. Q. O'Meara, E. W Murphy and Dr. A. J. Walsh, R.M.S., Crooksling; the Rev. T. B. Johnston, Miss Cusack-Mahon, J. A. Kenny, J. W. Shackleton, Dr. R. P. McMahon, Dr. M. T. O'Sullivan, Dr. C. L. Joyce, Dr. R. H. Belton, Norman Good, architect; F. G. Hicks, arch.; S. Milroy, Mrs. A. Pearson, Mrs. Malcolmson, Miss M. W. Collins.

HOURS AND HOURS OF WEARY WAITING

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

One move of a few yards every four hours, the chance of either sweltering in the sun or being soaked by rain, and even then, after a wait of perhaps ten hours, not attaining their objective, these are the prospects with which all who are trying to get special visas from the United Kingdom Permit Office, Merrion square, Dublin, are confronted.

Hour after hour they stand, forfeiting their meals, in a determined effort to get permission to go to Great Britain.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning I attached myself to the tail of the queue which was stretching into Holles street. It was two and a half hours before any move came, and we shuffled forward some ten feet.

Every walk of life was represented, and every topic of conversation was discussed in an effort to kill time. At one point a young university student was telling a farm labourer how he would conduct the war. At another, two mothers discussed their respective families, while prams were lined up at the end of the queue to be watched over carefully by the Garda.

Every day the Garda are kept busy answering the questions of newcomers, and turning those who demand immediate attention away from the door.

St. John Ambulance men are constantly on duty, dealing with fainting cases and attending to those who have given way under the strain after hours and hours of waiting.
